ADDITIONAL FIRE PROTECTION—Recognizing the need for additional fire protection in the rapidly growing Town of Ulster area, plans for an additional firehouse in the northern end of the Ulster Fire District have been under way for some time. Last October a $50,000 bond issue for a new firehouse on 9W in the Glenelg Lake Park area was authorized. The new firehouse shown above, will be built on lands purchased by Ulster Hose No. 5 and donated to the Fire District. Bids by banking houses for the new $50,000 serial bond issue will be opened at 4 p. m. Friday. Plans and specifications will be available for bid after April 8 at the Town Clerk's office, Columbia Street. Work on the new firehouse is expected to begin by May 1. The new firehouse will house equipment to augment that now housed in Ulster Hose No. 5, firehouse on 9W opposite the Chambers School, and will give greater fire protection to the northern end of the Fire District. Bids for a new fire truck will be opened tonight. Voters in the Fire District have authorized the new truck at a cost of $30,000. Plans for the new firehouse were prepared by Martin Schwartz, A.I.A., architect.

Lindsay Ready To Invoke 1953 Power on Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay will seek to impose a payroll tax on commuters if suburban legislators succeed in exempting their commuter-constituents from his proposed city income tax, it was learned today. A source said Lindsay would wield the authority the Legislature gave New York 13 years ago—which the city has never used—to impose a payroll tax on all employees who receive their pay checks in the city. The payroll tax, applied to commuters, is expected to yield up to $90 million a year, the source said. The Republican mayor is having difficulty winning support in the Legislature for his plan calling for new taxes or tax increases that would raise an additional $780 million annually. Lindsay proposes a $4 billion budget for the city. He was told Monday by Gov. Rockefeller that the income tax, if it included commuters, would be blocked by legislators from Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Rockland and Orange counties. Lindsay refused to yield on the commuter portion of his proposed income tax. His aides were to deliver to the Assembly and Senate today new bills that would provide permissive legislation for the personal income tax; a business tax; an increase in the stock transfer tax; and another measure that would permit the city to link its personal income tax to state income tax returns. This would save the city millions of dollars by eliminating the need for any new city tax collection agency.

HOME RACKETEERS

Annually the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce issues a warning to local residents to be wary of all high pressure sales efforts, particularly those made by strangers. This is timely advice as spring is the time when the home improvement racketeers flourish.

With the first sign of spring a motley assortment of itinerant repairmen and fast talking, door-to-door salesmen take to the road and high pressure mail order firms promoting "fast-growing" trees or shrubs with fanciful, unfamiliar names step up their activities. Most of these spring racketeers have common characteristics: phony bargains, trick financing, guarantees not honored, materials misrepresented and performances exaggerated.

The itinerant pitchman comes in a variety of guises. There is the gutter repairman, the chimney repairman, the roofing expert, the siding expert, the painter with a new type paint that outlasts the wood, the quack tree surgeon, the bogus termite control expert and the promoter of lightning protection devices that are not only worthless but may be harmful.

Attorney General Lefkowitz has issued a warning to homeowners to beware of the gyp artists who offer their "services" and "know-how" from door-to-door. He reports that from the number of complaints received, the current "favorite" on the gyp parade is the "referral sales" racket. The list of these entries include aluminum siding, carpeting, vacuum cleaning systems and household appliances. The homeowner is snared by the slick pitch of the salesman fraudulently posing as a representative of the advertising department of a nationally known firm, who claims the prospective customer's home has been selected for illustration purposes.

This also is the time of year when local areas are infected with traveling salesmen offering residents schemes of all sorts at prices the local business cannot meet—and for a very good reason. These cheap jobs are based on the fact that the work offered is cheap and shoddy, the material is not of top grade, the price originally quoted has a way of increasing phenomenally as the work proceeds and the "contract" will not be fulfilled as promised.

Once again, we urge that local, established, reliable firms first be given a chance to bid on any job. They will save many local residents from the discomfort caused by cheap work, purchased at a "bargain" price, a price that proves to be no bargain at all because the services offered are so below the standards of the hometown business community.

KITES AND SAFETY

We are in the beginning of the kite flying season. And kites can be a danger as well as fun. The utilities, in order to make this a safe kite season, urges area residents to take a few simple precautions so that the excited smiles of the kite flyers do not turn to cries of anguish.

Kite flyers are urged to let their cords out only in open areas, away from automobile traffic and electric lines. The kite pilot cannot watch the kite and the traffic at the same time.

Getting kites tangled with electric lines can be extremely dangerous. The kite cord should not have tinsel or wire on it and it should be dry. If that precaution is not heeded, contact of the cord with a live wire could carry electricity right down to the holder and cause serious trouble.

If a kite does get tangled in wires, or in a tree through which wire is running, no attempt should be made to retrieve it. It will be better to lose the kite than to risk losing a life.

These simple and wise rules don't stand in the way of pleasure in kite flying. Fun and safety, after all, can run together.

THOSE VORACIOUS SOVIET FISHERMEN

Mexico City—The more it changes, the more it's the same thing. Some three years ago the fishermen and lobstermen of New England were fulminating against Soviet Russian trawlers who were moving close to American shores and taking any thing and everything that swam. The complaint in Gloucester and New Bedford was that the Russians used illegal small mesh nets. This columnist happened to be on Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard at the height of the clamor, and wrote articles about it.

Coming to Mexico City, I discover that the same story is being written in almost the same words in the local papers. The only difference is that the Russians are now doing their fishing in the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of California.

Whether fishing is the main purpose of the Russian trawlers in the Gulf of Mexico is, of course, a contested point. Paul Bethel, the able journalist and former diplomat who heads the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba in Miami, Florida, has gleaned a good deal of material from anti-Castro refugees bearing on Soviet naval activities in the Caribbean region. But it may be assumed that the Russians are glad to get fish along with undersea topographical maps that would be of use for mining and submarine warfare purposes in case of war. Soviet economic policy and military policy normally work together in anything the Russians do.

So the complaints in Mexico City that the Russians, along with the Japanese, are "fishing out" local waters may be taken as the expression of quite legitimate economic fears. The Soviet trawlers are actually huge floating canning factories which carry on their decks their own smaller fishing boats. The smaller vessels range the waters, taking legitimate food fish and game fish that are not ordinarily eaten, and throwing them all into the canning pot together. What would be good enough in the United States only for dogs and cats is sold in the Muscovite market for human fodder. The sports fishermen who see their game fish preserves threatened with quick depletion have been leading the cry against the Russians in the Gulf of Mexico.

According to Jim Budd, who specializes in true "fish stories" for the local English-language press, the Mexican government has painted itself into a corner insofar as confronting the Soviet fishermen is concerned. The reason has to do with Mexican relations with Japan. The Japanese textile industry is a major outlet for Mexican cotton. But Mexico buys very little from Japan. It is Jim Budd's surmise that the Mexican Foreign Ministry is happy to grant a tacit reciprocity to Tokyo by saying nothing about Japanese fishing in the Gulf of California, which extends for some seven hundred miles into Mexico from the open Pacific.

The Japanese precedent having been established, nobody in the Mexican Commerce and Foreign Ministry could say very much when the Russians also moved into the Gulf of California. The Russians might seek to sustain the case that most of the fishing grounds in the Gulf of California are beyond the three-mile or the twelve-mile limit, and hence are "international waters" as much as are the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico. But by this token such enclosed bodies of water as Long Island Sound, Chesapeake Bay, and Puget Sound might be considered "international." The U. S. government would surely construe any such interpretation, as would the Russians themselves protest the movement of foreign fishing vessels into such close-to-home salt water as the Sea of Azov.

In one way, the Mexicans have only themselves to blame for losing fish to the Japanese and the Russians. The Mexican fishing fleets are small. Foreigners take three times more fish out of the Gulf of California than do the Mexicans themselves. But intensive international competition in fishing would not solve the problem of the world's fisheries. What is needed is some enforceable international convention that will limit and apportion the fishing "take" in ways that will result in keeping waters from being "fished out."

A problem for the UN, if the UN were only able to solve problems.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Modern Hazards Pose A Real Threat in the Home

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A severe itching eruption covering most of the body appeared suddenly in five members of a family. After considerable sleuthing, a doctor found that the mother had washed a pair of glass fiber curtains in a machine along with the family underwear. Minute bits of glass fiber thereby became impregnated in the family's clothing and produced the itch which is said to be worse than that of woolen undergarments.

That is what might be called learning about modern hazards the hard way. This should serve as a warning not to go and do likewise.

Q—Is it possible to learn while sleeping by means of records?

A—Since the first reports of sleep learning were published, commercial interests have promoted the sale of a variety of records for this purpose. Although the process has its enthusiasts, most scientists believe it is impractical.

Any learning that is accomplished by this means occurs only when the subject is in a drowsy or half-waking state. Since this is true authorities believe that the subject may suffer some of the effects of deprivation of deep sleep.

One observer states that, before a subject can profit from sleep learning, he must first undergo a course of hypnotic suggestion. This would eliminate all but the most determined candidates. The method has been used along with hypnosis to help break children of such habits as bed-wetting and nail biting but with questionable success.

It has also been used to teach a foreign language and improve vocabulary but, if the instruction gets mixed up with the dream state that often accompanies dropping off to sleep, what is learned may be a confused jumble of fact and fancy.

Some persons are slow learners and others learn quickly by the conventional methods. If sleep learning is indeed possible—and this is debatable—there is nothing in the technique that would make a quick learner out of a naturally slow learner.

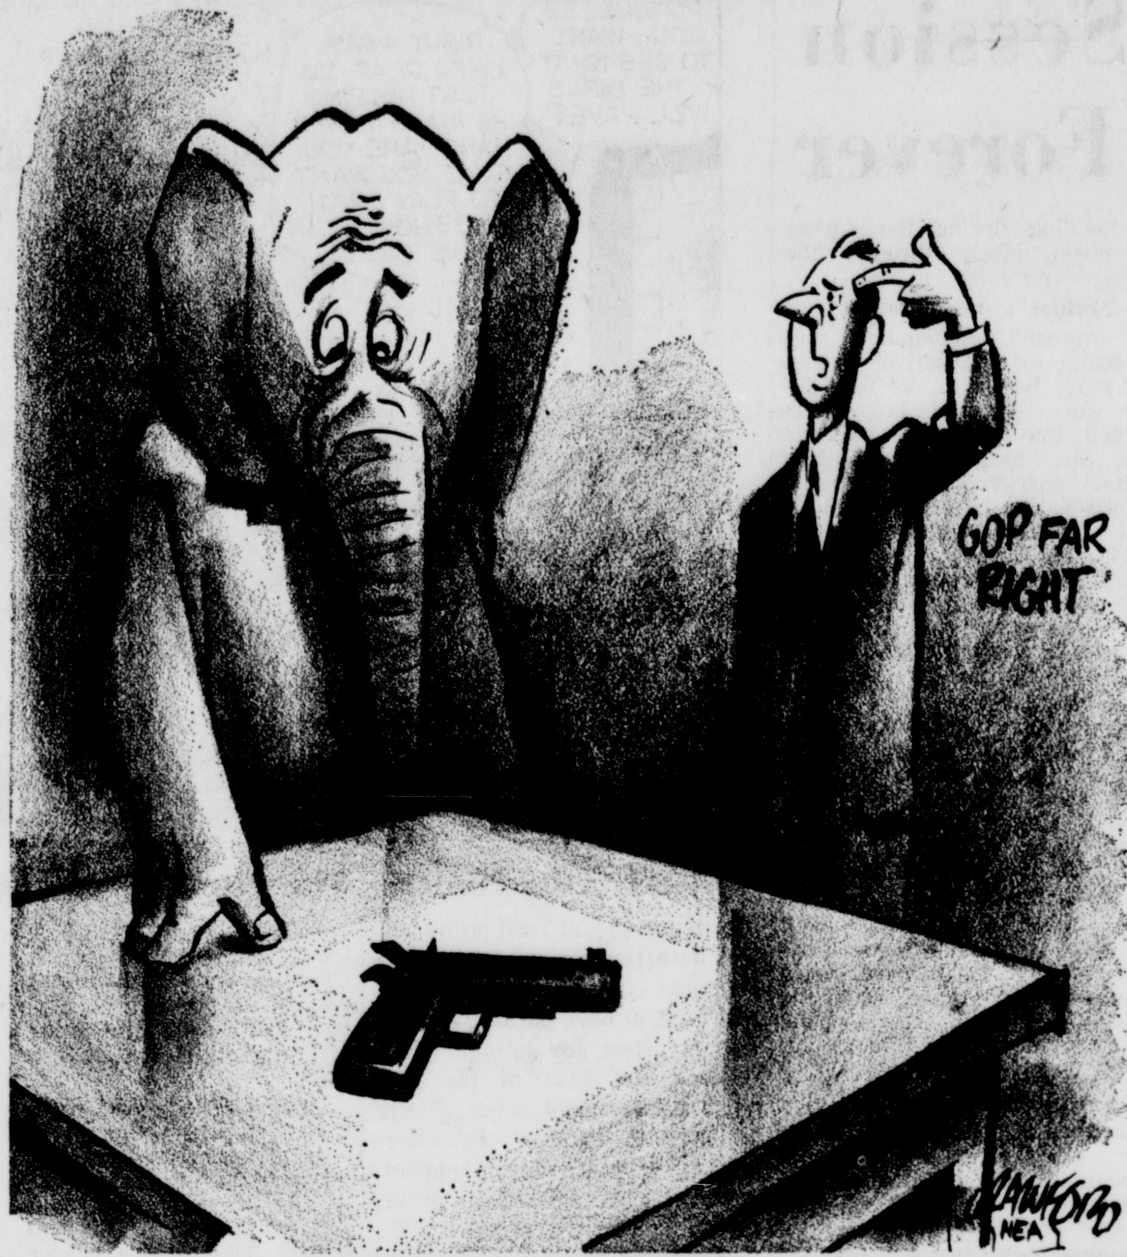

Q—I read recently that, when sauerkraut is cooked in an aluminum utensil, aluminum chloride is formed and this causes poisoning. Is this true?

A—False. Aluminum exposed to the air forms a thin layer of aluminum oxide which is not only harmless in itself but does not dissolve when exposed to sauerkraut or any other food. If this were not so there would be thousands of deaths from this cause every day.

disaster got tremendous coverage, an even worse horror on the day before—April 17—went almost unnoticed by comparison. That was the earthquake in Formosa, with a loss of life so heavy that it never was exactly tallied but which ran into many thousands.

One explanation is that the Formosa of those days had little significance for Americans. It was just an island vaguely known to be somewhere in Asia. Today, with the United States backing Chiang Kai-shek's nationalists as the island is pointed at mainland China like a dagger, it is different. Today a disaster in Formosa such as that of 1906 would be heavily reported. Circumstances alter cases.

Washington News

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Indications reaching here from sources in Africa suggest that conditions are ripe for military coups in several more African countries.

Two good bets: Guinea and the former French Congo, sometimes called Congo-Brazzaville, next door to the old Belgian Congo.

In the past year, seven of the new African nations have fallen to military overthrows. Ghana was only the latest in the series.

It's almost the only way, say some American experts, that most of these countries can change governments. Most have constitutions which provide for orderly change through elections. The constitutions are usually ignored or evaded.

It's usually not possible for opposition political parties or other groups to overthrow the incumbents — who control the elections, the finance and the police.

So when groups in these countries become dissatisfied with the government, there's only the army to turn to.

WHAT'S BACK OF THESE REVOLTS? In some of the new nations, it's growing corruption. Sometimes it's economic decline which hits hard the families of the soldiers. Sometimes it's brutal political repression. In others it's growing disorder and the inability of the government to keep order. In other cases it's regional or tribal conniving. Sometimes it's when the government threatens to cut back the army.

In Dahomey, Gen. Christophe Soglo's assumption of power took place with the tacit assent of leading Dahomean politicians who, themselves unable to reach an agreement to solve government problems, were willing to let Soglo and a cabal of technicians try their hand.

AS OF NOW, U. S. government analysts see a difference between what's happening in Africa and the early military dictatorships that marred Latin-American history.

By and large, the African military coup leaders have been moderate. They've usually let the civil service run the government. They've cut down on tribalism.

Where the previous governments have had strong Communist ties, they've cut these ties and moved toward the center. Most of the new governments are more friendly with the West. Most have said they intend to turn the government over to civilians. There's a tendency here to believe that most mean what they say — as of now.

In Gana, since the army coup, there's been a freeing of political prisoners, a moderate government attitude and a considerable

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

March 27, 1966, a coin show was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. I came in quite late, although did hear the auction, and it was a very lively crowd. I usually look for the large $5 bill, on the back of which is the Vanderlyn engraving of the Landing of Columbus. I have yet to see it at one of the shows. William F. Mihans, numismatist of Poughkeepsie showed me a "State of New York Bank" 1862 five cent script money with E. Ostrander's signature, which I take it to be the local bank. He also had a Bank of Rondout, Oct. 1, 1862, a five cent script, signed by Stebbins and Anderson.

One of the dealers from Earlville, had a large old $10 bill from the Rondout National Bank of Kingston. Fagher and Dwyer's signatures are on it. During the auction one realizes that ordinary Lincoln pennies, the proper date and mint marks bring a nice price. A double stamping of a Lincoln penny 1955 date was owned by one of the dealers and asking price was $14. Indian cents and flying eagles also had nice prices, if the right date. I often met at the coin shows, those who also visit the stamp club, so perhaps someday they will combine into a stamp and coin show, as I understand they do in other cities.

I have a large photograph of Wall Street showing L. B. Van Wagenen Co. when it was next to G. A. Hart. The Longyear's Stage for Woodstock is right in front of the stores. I think they were Red speed wagons with gas tank over dash board, which were gravity fed to carburetor, so it did not need vacuum tank or fuel pump to get out of order. They also had a Klaxon horn, at left of driver, which did not need electricity.

I see on Nekos Bros. sign is printed "chocolates and bonbons." G. A. Hart sold his dry goods store on Wall Street to Wonderly Company on Aug. 30, 1919. They had a farewell dinner at the Stuyvesant. The Stuyvesant Hotel opened in June, 1910 and owners were Mr. and Mrs. James S. Winne. I see in the Kingston Directory of 1914, Vincent A. Gorman was vice president of Herbert Carl Dry Goods Co. at 25 North Front Street. Gotelli's fruit store was at 333 Wall Street at the time. L. S. Winne and Co. were at 328 Wall Street. Julia Dillon, the artist was at 109 Pearl Street.

In 1914 they had a dozen blacksmiths in Kingston. Schoonmaker and Dunlop were at 121 Wall Street. Partlan Bros. were at 48 Hasbrouck Avenue and also at 599 Broadway. Patrick O'Reilly was at 71 Broadway. John S. Kearney and Son were at 224 Wall Street. Charles Diehl was at 115 Broadway. Conrad Davis was at 29 St. James Street. Willis E. Broadhead was at 291 Hasbrouck Avenue. Abram Van Kleec was at 420 Washington Avenue. Ervin Parker was at 183 Foxhall Avenue. Others took care of other parts of the city.

The people of Kingston could drink beer made right in the vicinity. There was the Peter Barmann Brewery at 30 Barmann Avenue and George Hauck and Sons Brewing Co. at 54 McEntee Street.

Spencer's Business School was at 39 John Street and students came to board in Kingston so they could take courses there. There was an employment Agency at 43 Garden Street run by Anna Hughes. Downtown, Broadway, Carl Fischer's Hotel at 69 East Strand. Mansion House at Broadway and West Strand and the New Rossmore at 1 Broadway, all run in proper form, dignified, as there was much business in those days downtown.

Today in National Affairs

Urgency Noted for Immediate Slash in LBJ's Extravagance

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Just why did President Johnson announce that sometime in April he might recommend an increase in income taxes, both corporate and personal? What was the purpose of leaving the question open while the whole country wonders what the President's decision ultimately will be?

These two questions are being answered in different ways. Some people believe that the President really hasn't made up his mind and that he is feeling the pulse of the country. But other observers think it's a kind of political game. It is suggested that the President is still holding no tax increase will be necessary and that, if a negative decision is made, this will bring the Democrats support in the November elections.

Underneath it all, however, something serious is going on in the national economy. It may be possible, of course, to avoid a grave turn in the whole situation between now and November, but what's more important is the economic crisis that may come afterwards if public spending isn't soon cut down.

The President talks, for instance, about a five or six billion dollar gain in receipts if a tax increase is imposed. But it isn't clear why the Administration doesn't take the safer course, which is to economize by that same amount. Certainly it would damage the economy far less if the budget of about $113 billion were diminished by a few billions than would be the case if everybody had to pay increased taxes at the very time when the cost of living is going up.

Apparently the Administration is hesitant to adopt such a policy. Also, many members of Congress who want to see more funds disbursed in their own states and districts by the Federal government are disinclined to vote for diminished appropriations. Yet if a recession comes and unemployment sweeps the nation, a larger and larger segment of the electorate will certainly vote against the party in power as well as against those Republicans who have joined the spending spree.

Perhaps the group of people most uncomfortable and worried about the outlook today are those who believe in the "new economics" and have been arguing that more and more government spending, even if it means bigger deficits, is good for the country and can sustain the boom. Certainly the expansion has been prolonged, but there comes a day of reckoning and it is fast approaching. It will be argued in rebuttal that the Viet Nam war upset everything. The increased spending for military purposes, on the other hand, is really a small percentage of the total outlay for the next fiscal year.

What's happening, of course, is that the concept of a "Great Society" has ushered in a period of government extravagance unparalleled in history. Projects are being undertaken in many fields of social welfare which can be defended in theory but which can also bring on untold hardships in the national economy unless held within the bounds of a sound fiscal policy.

As long as conditions are good, protests against excessive spending are ignored. But when interest rates begin to be pushed upward and the various indexes that measure prices and wages begin to reveal the shocking truth as has happened lately—public confidence in the maintenance of prosperity is shaken.

The President has rejected, for the time being anyway, the idea of legislation to control wages and prices. This is because the Administration feels it would be hurt politically with labor unions, which are a chief source of support at election time. Their financial contribution are very helpful in bringing citizens to the polls to support the democratic party.

The President has only one practical course available to him—to cut expenses and wage toward a balanced budget. There are many welfare projects that can wait at least year or two. The votes of the relatively few people who are benefited by rent subsidies, for example, or similar projects would be more than offset by the votes of the workers affected by the continued drop in the purchasing power of the dollar.

What is puzzling is that the President seems reluctant to decide between more spending, which increases inflation, and the necessary economizing which alone can slow down the hitherto uninterrupted flow of funds that has been responsible for the artificial conditions of today.

When we find it possible to transmit through 134 million miles of space fairly accurate photographs of Mars, it should be possible to determine what is going on in the jungle 1,000 feet below a spotter plane.

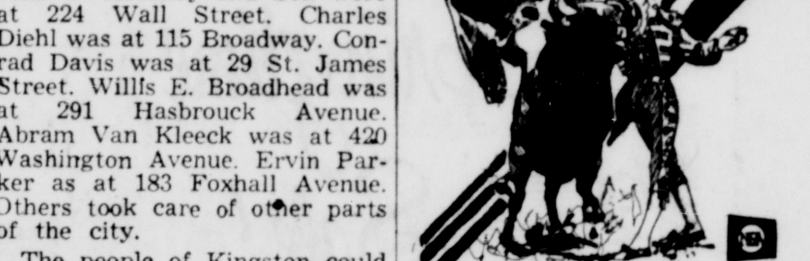

—Report by the House Armed Forces Subcommittee.

I anticipate — in view of the sound nature of the nation's economy and of production increases due in part to the war in Viet Nam — that the tax intake of the government will increase to such an extent that there should be no need for new taxes this year.

—Sen. Mike Mansfield.

Contrary to legend, the color red does not excite a bull, since all cattle are color-blind. In bullfighting, the matador's cape and his muleta—his staff which bears a red flag—are red since the color minimizes the sight of blood and other stains, and blends to better advantage to produce a more colorful spectacle. The inside of the cape is yellow and the bulls charge at that as readily as they do the red side.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's economy grew bigger — but not always better — in the first quarters of 1966. Records tumbled in almost all sectors. Often the growth in the three months ending today was more than the most optimistic dream at the start of the year. Personal income totals soared — but so did the cost of living. Corporate profits added more muscle — but so did the threat of a return to higher income taxes.

Shortages Up Costs
Employment rose faster than expected at this time of year — but labor shortages in some industries and more overtime pay in others sent production costs up and added pressure for price increases.

Consumers and business firms spent more than ever and planned still larger outlays — but this helped push high the cost of borrowing, whether for a new car, a new home, or a new factory.

The Gross National Product spurred to an annual rate of around $712 billion in the January-March quarter from the $697-billion rate in the final three months of 1965 — but as this measure of the total output of goods and services picked up speed, so did the clamor for applying the brakes.

Output Ceiling Nears
All this spending, consumer, government and business, helped push the backlog of orders for durable goods to 3½ months. This assured that factories would be busy — but also that the ceiling of production capacity was being neared. Industrial output at 151.3 per cent of its 1957-59 average was running 9 per cent ahead of last year in the quarter ending today.

The wholesale price index was rising — up 6 per cent since November. The jump in February was the biggest since the Korean War.

Most folks didn't need the big jump in the government's consumer price index in February to tell them that the cost of living was advancing more rapidly than in recent years. With the index at 111.6 per cent of its 1957-59 average, the market place value of the dollar of those years was down to 89 cents today.

It's a big three months you're saying goodbye to today — big in figures, big in activity, big in problems.

BRIDGE

Opponent Gets Chance to Err

By JACOB Y. SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The duplicate game was over and the Professor had won as usual. One of his top scores came on a hand which every South had played at one no-trump after the simple bidding of one no-trump followed by three passes. Most of the time expert play will not gain more than one trick. This time the Professor had made eight tricks for a plus of 120 while the other declarers had made either four or five tricks. In other words the Professor had outplayed the other declarers by at least three tricks.

Everyone wanted to know what he had done to mesmerize his opponents and the Professor started his explanation:

"I received the same spade lead that the rest of you did and my guess is that all of you either ducked completely or won in your own hands. In either case you would then lay down the ace and another diamond whereupon the defense would get spades established first and you would lose three spades, two diamonds and three or four clubs. A chorus of: 'That's just how we went down. How did you get out of the trap? How could you make eight tricks? Did someone revoke?'"

"Not at all," continued the Professor. "I took dummy's ace of spades at trick one and led the ten of diamonds. If East had played low I would have wound up going down just as all

A&P Not Moving From Prince St., Manager Reports

Reports that the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company were considering a move from the Prince Street location to an upper Broadway site, today were denied by the store manager.

He told The Freeman that the company had signed a new five-year lease in November, 1965 and had taken an option for another five years on the present business place.

It had been unofficially rumored that the Broadway location was near the J. H. Byrne Chevrolet.

Eleanor Parker Changes Mind About Dishabile

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "No. Absolutely not. I wouldn't consider it."
This was Eleanor Parker's initial reaction when she was asked to play a scene in the nude for "An American Dream."

But she played the scene — sans wardrobe.

Next to Nothing
"Well, almost," she admitted afterward. "I wore a G-string, that's all. The set was cleared except for the director and the camera operator. Studio police were placed on both sides of the set."

Why did the actress change her decision after first refusing to play the nude scene?

"At first the thought was repugnant to me," she explained. "It went against everything I believed. I'm a bit conservative, you know — the Midwest upbringing did that. I thought if I had to play nude scenes, I'd rather give up the business."

"But Robert Gist, who is the most sensitive and exciting director I have ever worked with, explained to me how the scene would be done in the best possible taste. If it were nudity for nudity's sake, I never would have done it."

Fits the Role

"Actually it makes sense. The character I play is completely amoral, a woman who gets her kicks from every possible source — booze, dope, men. The scene showed her in bed with another man while watching her husband on a television panel show. All she had on was dark glasses."

"An American Dream," which also stars Stuart Whitman and Janet Leigh, is Warner Brothers' version of the Norman Mailer novel which was extravagantly praised and damned by the critics. No one was indifferent but book-buyers; the novel failed to sell.

The film marks the return of Miss Parker to her old home lot after a 16-year absence. She remains beautiful enough that it seems incredible she started at Warner Brothers 25 years ago.

Man, 102, Dies

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A 102-year-old man, who took a job 22 years ago to qualify for Social Security benefits, died Wednesday at the Van Rensselaer Manor here.

John Murphy, who was born in New York City, would have been 103-years-old on April 9. He was a taylor.

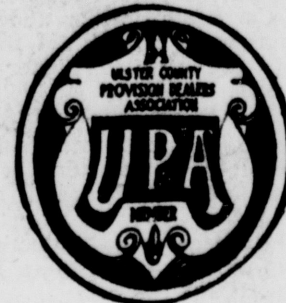

Murphy was a woodsman most of his life and retired before the Social Security Act of 1935. When he was 80 he took a job as a desk clerk in a hotel here. He retired again when he was 95.

Elect Caughey To Association Of Speech Group

MARY CAUGHEY

Mrs. Mary Caughey, speech specialist for the Onteora Central School District, was elected South Eastern Zone Representative and Council Member of the New York State Speech Association at the recent convention of the association.

Mrs. Caughey, who has pioneered in oral English and speech improvement techniques, has been the speech teacher and therapist in the four elementary schools of the Onteora System for the past seven years. She first came to Onteora as a speech therapist from the Board of Cooperative Educational Services. For the last three and a half years, she has been employed full time by the Onteora Central School District. In addition to giving therapy on an individual and group basis, she also teaches oral communication in the classrooms, gives a special course for sixth graders in public speaking, and supervises and trains the children with speech assignments for important school functions such as Christmas programs and graduation exercises.

Until recently, Mrs. Caughey was the only speech teacher on the elementary level to give classroom instruction other than for demonstration purposes. The new programs for disadvantaged children, however, have incorporated intensive speech improvement programs in New York City Schools. Although many English texts have units and chapters stressing oral communication, there is, as yet, no text covering all phases of speech improvement on the elementary level. Mrs. Caughey writes her own.

Mrs. Caughey began her teaching career as a music teacher in Missouri and Kansas and received her Masters degree in speech at Louisiana University. For several years, she served as head therapist at the Brooklyn College Speech and Hearing Clinic in New York City, and as a teacher of Speech Fundamentals at Brooklyn College. After

Local Lions Hear Speaker Outline Youth Problems

A very informative and educational program was presented by Joseph F. DeGiacomo, regional intake representative New York State Division for Youth, Albany District at this week's Lions Club meeting.

DeGiacomo who resides at Poughkeepsie has primary responsibility to process youths (boys and girls) who have been referred by appropriate referral agencies for residence at Division for Youth Facility.

After some introductory remarks, a film entitled "Take on Option on Tomorrow," pointed out the problem of delinquent youth and some of the special programs conducted by the Division for youth. One such youth center program is known as "START," Short-Term Analysis Resident Training geared to the 15-17 year age youth who, because of unemployment, school dropout, untrained, poor family environment, or other problems need special attention.

Another special program presented was a Youth Camp for youth 14-16 years of age. These camps are a rehabilitation and vocational training centers equipped to handle 60 youth. The film concluded by pointing out that programs for youth need everyone's support. New techniques and procedures will be explored in working with youth in the ever expanding effort to train more youth to become responsible adult citizens in their community.

Weekly Food Review

NEW YORK (AP) — The worst of the high meat prices may be over.

Beef and pork prices, which soared off the tops of the charts during the winter, have been falling at wholesale markets. The drops should be passed along to housewives in the next few weeks.

Stores in the Midwest and in the New York area are advertising specials on beef this week-end, and in the Southeast, Bacon, and West Coast, pork.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the anticipated slowdown in food price increases in the next few months would depend on the weather.

The bureau issued statistics this week noting that food prices in February were 6.5 per cent higher than in 1965 — something any housewife paying $1.19 a pound for bacon could have told them without consulting the charts.

Prices of fresh vegetables were up 10.5 per cent, an aftermath of the January freeze which cut Florida's cucumber and green pepper crops, heavy rains that hampered Texan onion and carrot production and cool, rainy weather that delayed the cabbage and lettuce harvests in Arizona and California.

Bills Introduced In Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's $100-million program for combating drug addiction—already passed by both the Senate and Assembly—was back before the Senate today.

The legislative twist obliging the Senate to take up the measures a second time developed Wednesday when the Democratic-controlled Assembly approved the bill under a bi-partisan label.

The Republican-dominated Senate had passed identical legislation Monday—but did so under a strictly GOP aegis.

Because the bills list different sponsors—even though they are exact duplicates in all other features—one set, or the other, must gain joint endorsement before they can be sent to Rockefeller.

An aide to Assembly Speaker Anthony Travia said the Democratic leader would insist that the Senate pass the Assembly's version, which Travia described as a bi-partisan "leadership bill."

The Senate's Republican majority leader, Earl W. Brydges, indicated he would respect Travia's wishes. He commented that, "I think this can be worked out."

Meanwhile, there was another development in the governor's proposed attack on crime and narcotics as Rockefeller sent three bills to the Legislature aimed at beefing up law enforcement activities.

The measures would mandate police salary levels; continue the State Commission of Investigation; and require district attorneys in 23 counties to devote full time to their jobs.

In other action during a busy day that saw the Assembly and Senate plow through heavy schedules enroute to an Easter-Friday, the Senate passed a bill that would authorize the state to spend $300,000 on the engineering-design phase of the state's "safety-car" program.

The bill was sent to the Assembly. It has been estimated it would cost about $4 million to build prototype models of the vehicle for testing.

The Senate generally laid aside controversial issues while the Assembly debated for more than 2½ hours on the governor's narcotics program.

Liberal Democrats, mostly from New York City, complained that the measures did not provide for enough money to fight drug addiction properly.

The program calls for $75 million in its first year to build facilities to confine and treat drug addicts and also allots $6 million to establish a narcotics control commission to direct the operation.

Other provisions in the anti-narcotics bills would:

—Allow any person who believes "in good faith" that another person is a drug addict to go into court and launch proceedings to get the suspected addict committed for up to three years' treatment.

—Allow a jury trial, if requested, on the question of whether a person is a drug addict.

—Provide up to three years' confinement for addicts convicted of a misdemeanor.

—Permit up to five years of treatment, after care and rehabilitation for addicts convicted of a felony.

Rockefeller has said he hopes the federal government will absorb two-thirds of the cost of the program.

An opponent, Assemblyman Jerome Kretschmer, D-Manhattan, argued that the compulsory confinement of addicts does not produce a cure.

The Assembly rejected two amendments proposed by Kretschmer. They would have established out-patient clinics where patients could receive drugs if needed, and permitted individual physicians to administer drugs to addicts.

Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal, D-Manhattan, said that compulsory confinement would create "concentration camps in this state."

The Assembly's top Negro spokesman, Percy E. Sutton of Harlem, criticized Rockefeller's plan as a program for "human removal."

Republican Assemblyman Richard Bartlett of Glens Falls conceded that the $75 million this year was not enough to gain complete control of the addiction problem but held that it was "like building a road, you go a mile at a time."

The measures would initiate an all-out attack on the problem of drug addiction and dope peddlers.

After passing the main bill, 157-7, the Assembly approved another bi-partisan measure that would stiffen penalties against drug pushers. It would set prison terms of 10-20 years instead of 7-15 years for sales of narcotics to minors. The minimum penalty for selling drugs to adults, or for possessing drugs with intent to sell, would be raised from five to seven years.

Rockefeller's anti-crime proposals would:

—Mandate minimum annual police salaries of $5,100 in communities with a population of more than 50,000; $4,900 in communities with populations between 25,000 and 50,000; and $4,500 in areas with populations between 10,000 and 25,000 persons.

—Extend the life of the State Commission of Investigation until April 30, 1969. The governor would appoint the commission's chairman. The chairman is selected now on a rotating basis.

—Require district attorneys in counties of more than 100,000 population to serve full time. The provision would apply only to district attorneys elected or re-elected after Sept. 1.

A total of 23 of the 62 counties in the state have populations greater than 100,000, and thus would be subject to the bill. They are:

Albany, Bronx, Broome, Chautauque, Dutchess, Erie, Kings, Monroe, Nassau, New York, Niagara, Oneida, Onondaga, Orange, Queens, Rensselaer, Richmond, Rockland, St. Lawrence, Schenectady, Suffolk, Ulster, and Westchester.

Says Peace Corps Worker Held in Death of Wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps reported today that Bill Heywood Kinsey Jr., a Corps worker in Tanzania, is held by police at Maswa in connection with the death of his wife, also a Corps member.

A report to Peace Corps headquarters yesterday indicated the death of Mrs. Beverley Dennett Kinsey was accidental, resulting from a fall.

Details were lacking here, but the Peace Corps said Mrs. Kinsey was fatally injured on a picnic at Shinyanga, about 100 miles southeast of Lake Victoria and near Maswa where the couple were teaching school.

Kinsey, 24, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bill Heywood Kinsey of Washington, N.C. A graduate of Randolph Macon Academy, Front Royal, Va., and Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., he took Peace Corps training at Syracuse University.

Mrs. Kinsey, also a Syracuse trainee, was the daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Woodall Denney.

Woman Cheats Death Thanks to Missing Button

RINGWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. John W. Renton was ironing her daughter's Easter suit in the kitchen of her home Wednesday morning when she noticed a button was missing.

That button saved her life, she said.

She took the suit into a bedroom to sew the button on and, seconds later, a pilotless F106 jet fighter crashed into her home, caving in the roof and completely demolishing the kitchen.

Mrs. Renton said she was with one of her four daughters, the only other person in the house, when the crash happened.

"I didn't know it was a plane," she said. "We just heard a noise and saw the roof on the floor and the flames."

"You think of yourself and your child first so I grabbed Meg and saw there was no other way out except through the cellar."

The two of them got out that way, unharmed.

Three other Renton children were in school and Mr. Renton, a communications supervisor, was at work in New York City.

Mrs. Renton said she didn't panic, but saw that her neighbors were near hysteria.

One of those neighbors, Mrs. Charles Novak, was in her home with her three children when the fighter crashed. Her home is almost directly below the line of trees the plane sheared off.

"I heard a house crumbling," she said. "and instinct told me to get the kids out." She said she did not know then whether the crumbling house was hers.

Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and Ambassador Chester Bowles spoke. The president then submitted a message to Congress proposing that the United States assume half of a world pledge to India of 7 million tons of wheat. Canada has pledged one million.

"If the U. S. and Indian governments do not act immediately," Resnick said, "between 25 and 40 million Indians are going to starve to death. I believe the president is doing the human thing proposing to send these people wheat. This is certainly not the act of a warlike nation or a nation bent on plunder and murder as we have been accused. I am confident that we can meet this challenge just as we have met challenges before."

HOUSE SPARROW: English sparrows were imported into the U.S. about 1850. In England the same bird is called a house sparrow—but actually the bird is a weaver finch and from an entirely different family. The "sparrows" were brought into the country to kill foliage-eating caterpillars, but soon they did damage of their own by eating important seeds.

State Has Low Call for Draft In May Month

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A "comparatively low" 1,539 men in New York State face the military draft in May, says the state selective service director, because "we can't provide single men if we don't have them."

Col. William H. Boughton said Wednesday that the May callup is lower than that for the first three months of this year but is an increase of 580 over April.

Nationally, the Defense Department asked for 34,600 in May, the highest since January. The state's quota was 1,959 in January, 1,578 in February and 1,761 in March. In April, 859 men are to be inducted.

Urges Law to Curb Cigarette Smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman from Long Island proposes legislation to curb the bootlegging of cigarettes into New York State and the resulting loss of revenue that he estimated at up to $50 million annually.

Under terms of a measure proposed Wednesday by Herbert Tenzer, a Democrat from Lawrenceville, any person or firm selling or transporting more than 5,000 cigarettes in interstate commerce would be required to file a report with tax authorities on the receiving end. This, he said, would halt the heavy losses suffered by the state and New York City from cigarettes smuggled in from tax free states such as North Carolina or from low tax areas such as the District of Columbia.

Knauss Named Aide On Aldrich Campaign

Another outstanding community leader has chosen to join the growing Aldrich bandwagon to Congress, according to John L. Larkin, Kingston attorney and chairman of the Alexander Aldrich Congressional Campaign.

Charles W. Knauss, Dutchess County business leader and former president of the Dutchess County Young Republicans, has volunteered his efforts for the Aldrich team. Knauss has been named assistant campaign director.

Knauss said, "Coming aboard the Alexander Aldrich campaign team is a natural result of knowing the Republican candidate, Sam Aldrich," he said, "is the best man I know for the important office of Congressman from our district. He has the experience and qualifications to be a fine representative in Washington, and to wage a winning campaign."

Mr. Knauss's campaign responsibility will team him up with Campaign Director Louis A. Pierro of Hudson. Both Pierro and Knauss will be working with Aldrich volunteer groups and citizens' committees, which are springing up throughout the 28th District.

SCIENTIST AND SUBJECT—Marine biologist William Pinckard, member of the New York Zoological Society with "Operation Deep Freeze '66" in Antarctica, gets a close look at his subject matter, a 1,200-pound Weddell Seal. Using hydrophones and tape recorders to investigate all sounds made by seals, Pinckard hopes to unravel the mystery of their ability to find the way back to breathing holes after dives of more than 1,000 feet in ice-covered waters. Seal sounds could turn out to be both a language of sorts and a natural version of Sonar navigation.

Wallkill, March 30th, 1966
Actions of some UNICEF officials are hardly such as to inspire trust and confidence. They have made contradictory statements, on occasion. (Contact address below for details). When they say, Red China received no aid in 1961, doubts can be entertained. On the other hand, it cannot be proven that Red China did receive UNICEF aid. UNICEF critics can prove a Red China "allotment" exists in the 1960-1961 UNICEF budget. The UNICEF Executive Board in restoring this allotment to the general fund, stated it is ready and willing to give it back, if Red China applies for it. No conclusive proof exists that Red China used this allotment in 1961. Only certain officials in Red China and in UNICEF would know this secret.

Calcutta, A City in Crisis, Races Time

Loss Could Effect All of India, Repercussions Throughout Asia

An AP Special Report By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — This is one of the world's largest cities and it is a city in crisis — overwhelmed by runaway population, poverty, hunger, disease and illiteracy.

A third of its people live in conditions which by Western standards are unfit for human habitation.

"We're really in a race with time," one official admits.

If the race is lost, all of India will face a serious threat, experts here agree. Repercussions could be felt throughout Asia.

Bloody rioting broke out in mid-March, ostensibly over food shortages. Before the army regained control, about 30 lives had been lost, and millions of dollars worth of property — mostly government — had been burned or otherwise destroyed.

Inspired by Leftists The violence was inspired by leftists, who are capitalizing on the deteriorating situation.

Even nature is working against Calcutta. The harbor, major trade link between East and West, is silted up; and the flow of fresh water into the Hooghly River is diverting into other branches of the mighty Ganges.

"Given the resources of the area, the city is faced with a hopeless task," was the grim resume of one qualified observer.

"Local resources such as taxes are insufficient," administrative ability is skimpy.

"There is a great air of hopelessness, despair and cynicism. We don't have citizen good will. We have a crisis but no sense of crisis in the city and state administration."

"The problems are so chronic and the people so long-suffering that you can't arouse a development effort."

Under British rule Calcutta developed into one of the world's busiest ports. It was India's capital until 1912, the site of palatial British residences and government buildings.

Came With Independence

Calcutta's real problems came with India's independence and partition of the subcontinent. About a million of the 4.2 million Hindu refugees who left East Pakistan swarmed into Calcutta, straining facilities.

The result is a metropolitan city of about seven million persons, gaining 200,000 a year. The Hooghly River on one side and salt water swamps on the other keep Calcutta from spreading out, so the population density goes up and up.

Calcutta is estimated to have 102,000 people per square mile, compared with 27,000 for New York City.

No Room for Schools, Parks

An official at the Calcutta Metropolitan Planning Organization pointed out that "in New York you achieve density by building skyscrapers. Here we have one-story busters (slums). We have no room for schools, parks or hospitals."

It is estimated that three-fourths of Calcutta's people live in overcrowded tenement and buster quarters, ridden with flies and rats. About 60 per cent of multistoried families are jammed into one-room quarters — many without running water. Thousands live on the sidewalks.

The lack of safe water supply, sewage facilities and proper housing has made Calcutta an endemic source of cholera and other diseases. The World Health Organization calls the city an international health hazard amid its tropical heat and humidity.

Five years ago, the Ford Foundation sent a team of international specialists in urban planning. As a result a planning organization came into being and today the foreign experts work alongside Indian planners, turning out programs aimed at preventing catastrophe here.

John P. Robin, former chairman of the Pennsylvania Planning Board, is chief consultant. Others in the group include Arthur Row, on leave from Yale University where he is chairman of the Department of City Planning.

Many Decline Quotes

The foreign experts decline to be quoted on Calcutta's problems because of possible resentment at interference by outsiders. Indian officials similarly decline, fearing they would become targets of leftist agitators.

But interviews with planners and city, state and port officials produce this summary of Calcutta's problems:

Not only is Calcutta grossly overpopulated, but so is its trade area — the states of West Bengal, Bihar, Orissa and Assam. Calcutta is the only city over 300,000 in this great rural area. The states have a total population of about 146 million people, equal to that in all the European Common Market countries.

Most Backward in India

Calcutta is the most backward city and area in India in terms of educational facilities. No school is available for a half-million children. At the present rate of population growth, Calcutta would have to build 100 schools a year for 20 years and these would have to operate double shifts. Calcutta has not opened a single school in the past 10 years.

Incurable Must Leave

Hospitals are so overcrowded that patients pronounced incurably ill must leave. The city has 3.8 hospital beds per 1,000 people, a fairly good figure for India. But people come from all over eastern India for treatment. The city is building one hospital every 10 years.

It would take about 200,000 new houses to clear the present busters. The present rate of building would take 100 more years just to clear the present slums.

Calcutta's existence is based on its port, which handles 42 per cent of India's exports and 25 per cent of its imports. But the port is dying and plans are under way to build a new port nearer the open sea, at Haldia, 60 miles south of Calcutta.

Through a natural diversion process, the Ganges River has been shifting the main volume of its water to its mouth in East Pakistan. Water flowing into the Hooghly is so silt-laden that dredges are unable to keep up with it. The river today is limited to ships of about 26-foot draft and 10,000 tons.

Reduced water flow has caused three other problems. It has caused the city a severe shortage of fresh water; it is insufficient to flush away the sewage pouring into the river; and salt water pushing in from the Bay of Bengal is threatening fresh water supplies.

Part of Calcutta's problem is the vast number of uneducated, unskilled male laborers flocking in from the surrounding rural area.

They have contributed to the estimated 15 per cent open, or readily apparent, unemployment. A city official said there is a tremendous concealed unemployment, including the sidewalk sleepers who don't apply for jobs or get counted.

The influx of men has made Calcutta "the most male city in the world." The 1961 census showed 45 women for every 1,000 men. This increases sex crimes, prostitution, and venereal disease.

The men send whatever money they can scrape together home to their wives and children and this gives Calcutta a high volume of postal money order business.

Mr. Henderson and a friend who had been visiting her, Miss Arlene Thomas, 19, leaped from a second-floor window.

BENEDICTINE MEDICAL STAFF MEETING—Dr. John A. Cooke Jr., retiring president of the medical staff of the Benedictine Hospital, is shown congratulating the incoming President, Dr. Michael Diacovo, at the annual dinner-meeting of the Benedictine Hospital medical staff Tuesday night at the nurses' home. The guest speaker was the Rev. John J. Flanagan, S.J., executive director of the Catholic Hospital Association. At the head table, from left, are Sister Mary Charles, co-administrator; Father Flanagan, Dr. Cooke, Dr. Diacovo, the Rev. Mother Cornelia, O.S.B., president of the Benedictine Hospital, and Edwin B. New Officers Appointed At Benedictine Hospital

A closer hospital-doctor relationship is necessary for the future survival of the voluntary hospital system, the Rev. John J. Flanagan, S.J., executive director of the Catholic Hospital Association, declared at the annual Benedictine Hospital Medical Staff dinner-meeting held Thursday in the hospital nurses' residence and school.

Father Flanagan was the guest speaker at the annual dinner, at which the Benedictine Hospital Medical Staff reviews the past year's medical service and the appointments for the coming year are made by the Board of Directors.

Dr. John A. Cooke Jr., retiring president of the Medical Staff, was chairman of the meeting. In his remarks, Dr. Cooke touched on some of the highlights of the past year. He said "one of the most gratifying events of the past year was the reception of the notice that the Benedictine Hospital had again received full accreditation for three years by the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation."

Dr. Cooke continued, "another forward step which began as a flickering spark several years ago burst into full flame this past year. I refer to the building program. There is every indication that construction will begin in the next few months."

Some of the fire has been doused by the recent news that we will need an additional $500,000. To build what we would like to build, I, therefore, at this time ask each of you to carefully review your own financial situations and increase your pledges if you can, and to encourage your friends and patients, who might be in a position to do so, to give us some additional financial support.

"A new separate Department of Anesthesia was set up during 1965. The number of physician anesthesiologists is now four. Besides covering the operating rooms, this department now maintains a physician anesthesiologist on premises for all obstetrical deliveries. The number of hospitals in the country that provide such coverage by physicians specializing in anesthesia is so few as to make our hospital almost unique in this regard."

"An emergency hospital training exercise by all departments, professional and non-professional, of this hospital was held in October in the Municipal Auditorium. The high praise received from the State Health Department warrants mention here. Dr. Galyon, his committee, and all those who participated are entitled to our accolades. It is hoped that our exercises, which must be carried out later this year and in future years, will maintain this standard of excellence."

Impact of Medicare

In conclusion Dr. Cooke remarked, "The exact impact of Medicare on the staff is still a matter of conjecture but one can speculate that it is going to require a lot of adjustment at all levels. The future of the voluntary hospitals will, in my opinion, depend to a great extent on how we meet and solve the problems created by this program."

The Rev. Mother Cornelia, O.S.B., president of the Board of Directors of the Benedictine Hospital, then greeted the staff and expressed the appreciation of the Sisters for another year of support by the staff. Mother Cornelia then announced the appointments for the medical staff for the coming year. Dr. Michael Diacovo, president; Dr. John Alley, vice-president; Dr. Anthony Tocco, secretary-treasurer. Dr. John Olivet will continue as department head of medicine; Dr. John A. Cooke Jr., department head of surgery; Dr. Francis LoGalbo, department head of obstetrics and gynecology; and Dr. George Einterz, department head of general practice.

Dr. Diacovo President

Dr. Michael Diacovo, the newly appointed president, then chaired the remainder of the meeting. Dr. Diacovo stated in his brief remarks that "doctors and hospital staff have to continue to increase their interest and understanding in each other so that a continued effect and cooperative effort will help continue the voluntary hospital system in the United States. Dr. Diacovo stated that "with the advent of Medicare and other restrictive and review mechanisms, the relationship between the doctor and hospital will indeed be put to the test." He asked for "the full cooperation of the staff with the hospital as well as his administration, in order that the Benedictine Hospital can continue to progress and expand its facilities."

Ex-Orange Man Mitchell Happy In Pa. Post, No Relief Woes

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Joseph Mitchell says he is happy these days working at a job that's not involved in relief payments.

Five years ago, as city manager of Newburgh, N.Y., Mitchell triggered a national controversy by enforcing rules to stem the flow of relief money in Newburgh.

With the passage of half a decade, Mitchell still feels he is right — rules should be made to prevent "moral chiselers and loafers to squat on the relief rolls forever."

Any regrets? Possibly one, says Mitchell.

"If I called anybody 'chiseler' I want to apologize. But the philosophy stands."

One rule of Mitchell's denied welfare payments to unwed mothers who gave birth to additional illegitimate children. Another required able-bodied men to work on municipal projects to qualify for relief checks.

A court order upset the rules four months after they went into effect.

Recalling his controversial days in Newburgh, Mitchell said in an interview:

"It was like a carnival had come to town. Liberals got mad. Conservatives got happy. I got a little mixed up with the roar of the crowd."

Groups like the John Birch Society praised him. He was denounced by groups like the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mitchell became city manager of this western Pennsylvania town in 1965.

Here, he says, "I can tell you sincerely I'm very happy."

The relief program for Hollidaysburg is run by Blair County. "I don't want to get involved in it," he said.

After leaving the Newburgh post in 1963, Mitchell became a field representative for the Citizens Council of America, Inc., which favors racial segregation.

He quit the council after one year and described the experience as "repugnant."

Mitchell admitted most of his supporters were ultra conservatives. He said he became disillusioned with them.

"I have divorced myself from that stuff," he said.

Study Withdrawal Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it is studying carefully a French note in which France told the United States it will withdraw its forces from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's integrated military structure by July 1.

"It may be assumed that there will be a reply," said Robert J. McCloskey, press secretary, Wednesday in announcing that the note was delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Paris Tuesday night.

Officials said further clarification will be needed of some points in the French note. NATO's political headquarters

Lane Will Run, 4-Way Race Looms for Seat

A four-way race for a seat in the newly created 100th Assembly District loomed today with the announcement by Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane, Windham Republican, that he will seek re-election in November.

The newly created district consists of Columbia and Greene Counties, six towns in Albany County and the towns of Tassau and Schoharie in Rensselaer County.

Lane won a tight primary fight against former Assemblyman Willard C. Drumm of Columbia County.

The new reapportionment plan announced last week by the Judicial Commission on Reapportionment, lumped Lane and Assemblyman Douglas Hudson of Castleton in the same district.

Hudson, chairman of the Rensselaer County Republican Committee, is expected to seek re-election in the new district.

Cases Are Heard In City Court

A city court jury found Stanley J. Zaborski 3rd, 19, of 102 Wrentham Street innocent of driving while intoxicated, but guilty of leaving the scene of an accident after trial Wednesday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

The two charges and one dealing with lack of car inspection were lodged last Jan. 30, police said after the car he drove struck a parked car at Albany and Clinton Avenue. Judge Richter imposed a $5 fine on the latter and suspended payment. He is to be sentenced Friday on the charge of leaving the scene.

Attorney David M. Barnovitz appeared for Zaborski and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher for the prosecution. The jury deliberated about 25 minutes.

Two women charged with petit larceny several weeks ago were given suspended sentences of 30 days in jail each today.

and professionally gratifying. He noted that the staff had taken the transition from the old to the new "in stride" and was generous in his praise for the staff members who have enthusiastically undertaken and accomplished all of the extra work necessitated by the move.

The administrator also expressed gratitude for the work of all volunteers, hospital directors, auxiliary workers, ambulance squad volunteers, and the husbands of wives of staff members.

"Everyone has been just marvelous," Koefoed said. "This is a good beginning for our community hospital."

Dear Abby . . .

No Substitute for the Truth

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We don't exactly need advice but we do need your help. My daughter, (I'll call her Maureen) became engaged to a very nice young man she'd gone through college with. He gave her a diamond and we announced their engagement at a lovely dinner party. We started making the wedding plans when Maureen told us that the young man had asked for more time to think about it because he wasn't "sure."

Maureen says she has good reason to believe there is another girl in the picture, so she returned his ring. Here's where you come in. I told Maureen not to worry, that I would write to you, and good Abigail would help us make up a convincing story to tell people. Will you?

MAUREEN'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: "Good old Abigail" quit making up stories years ago when she learned there is no substitute for the truth. Tell people the engagement is off and don't volunteer any details.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband and I went to a house-warming party for some friends. The invitations read, "From 7 until 9." About 9 a couple of guests began moving the furniture so they could dance. My husband wanted to leave, but I thought it would be okay to stay and dance a while since a few others were dancing. The party lasted a lot longer than we thought it would. Were we wrong to stay and dance?

BEAMONT

DEAR BEAMONT: Yes. At 9 p. m. promptly, you should have thanked your host and hostess and "danced" out the door.

DEAR ABBY: I see so many letters in your column from people complaining because some of their friends and relatives don't have good table manners. I once read that when Albert Einstein wanted a good laugh, he'd curl in a comfy chair with an etiquette book and go into hysterics. He thought the "rules of etiquette" were the funniest things ever written. So do I. Why should there be only one "proper" way to eat a spear of asparagus? How ridiculous to judge a person on his table manners. My husband is the kindest, most gentle man in all this world, and if he wants to cut up all the meat on his plate at once, and butter a whole slice of bread and shovel it in, God bless him. He paid for it himself, which is more than you can say for a lot of society moochers.

SAID MY SAY

CONFIDENTIAL TO RUTH: All men do not cheat on their wives. But it's a pretty safe bet that the man who says they do, cheats on his!

Operation Indiana, claiming 69 Viet Cong killed, one captured and 21 weapons seized. Marine jets destroyed or damaged 55 buildings, silenced two gun positions and cut a road.

Air Force B52 hit two Viet Cong jungle base camps, only yards apart, this morning in Quang Nam Province about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang. One was a guerrilla training post, an Air Force spokesman said.

Weather Deters Planes
Over North Viet Nam the heavy weather restricted Navy carrier planes to two missions Wednesday, but they destroyed two gun emplacements and one junk near Dong Hoi.

Radar-equipped Air Force jets struck 17 targets around Vinh, mostly river fords, staging areas and highway. Pilot reported silencing an automatic weapons site and an anti-aircraft battery.

In combined air assaults over North Viet Nam since Feb. 8, 1965, American forces have lost 201 attack planes and five reconnaissance and support ships, a spokesman announced. In South Viet Nam, losses totaled 98 planes through March 27.

While another battle of epic proportions threatened in the central highlands, antigovernment demonstrations continued in Saigon and the northern cities of Hue and Da Nang. All showed a strong tinge of anti-Americanism.

Flaunt Banners

Flaunting banners reading "Down with U.S. obstruction," "America, we want friends, not bosses" and "Viet Nam belongs only to Viet Nam," 3,000 persons marched through downtown Saigon in support of Buddhist demands for civilian rule.

Someone nailed caricatures of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Deputy Premier Nguyen Huu Co and chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu to the execution stakes in the central market place, and a sign said: "These people must be executed."

Vietnamese marines and paratroopers guarded the government radio station and other key installations in the capital, but otherwise the military junta continued to treat the unrest with a gloved hand. All the demonstrations were orderly.

There were 4,000 to 5,000 demonstrators in Hue and about 5,000 in Da Nang.

Ky's ruling junta of generals was reported to have decided to take "adequate disciplinary measures" against military men or civil servants who participate in the public protests.

But in an effort to placate the dissidents the junta also agreed to go ahead with plans to draft a national constitution, semi-official sources said. This would be followed by election of a national assembly, the key demand of Buddhist and student groups. Ky has already promised to try to advance the date of national elections by six or seven months to early next year but has warned that the timetable would depend on the course of the war.

The U.S. military command announced that enemy casualties tripled last week in comparison with the week before, and casualties among U.S., Vietnamese and other allied troops also rose.

Enemy casualties for the week of March 20-26 were reported as 1,988 killed and 249 captured, compared with 627 killed and 59 captured the week before.

123 Killed
American casualties were 123 killed, 515 wounded and 4 missing or captured, the command said. The week before there were 80 Americans reported killed, 816 wounded and 17 missing.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said 318 Vietnamese were killed and 58 missing last week; the previous week's figures were 232 killed and 73 missing. South Vietnamese wounded are not announced.

Other allied forces reported 28 men killed in action and 58 wounded.

The new casualty figures raised the number of U.S. military personnel killed in Viet Nam since January 1961 to 2,309, the wounded to 14,037 and the missing to 180.

Driver Arrested After Hurley Crash Wednesday

After his car went out of control and rolled down an embankment into a field at about 8:45 p. m. Wednesday, Smith Conover, 35, of 47 Hudson Street, this city, was arrested by State Trooper Robert Mackey of the Kingston substation.

Conover pleaded innocent to a charge of drunken driving before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Hurley. He was released pending a hearing on April 6 at 7:30 p. m.

According to Trooper Mackey, Conover was driving east on Zandhoeck Road, Town of Hurley, when his car failed to negotiate a left curve, went off the south side of the highway, hit guard posts and went down embankment. The car rolled over and came to stop on its wheels, authorities said.

Mackey said Conover was not injured.

Names in The News

Joan Comes to Rescue

DETROIT (AP) — No one would ever know that 17-year-old Janice Ottenbacher lay near death only two years ago.

After a bout with pneumonia, her kidneys failed and she was kept alive by an artificial kidney.

To her rescue came her identical twin, Joan, who permitted doctors to transfer one of her kidneys to her sister.

"It was a tremendous risk for Joan," said a spokesman at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

But Wednesday both girls were in fine shape as they celebrated the second anniversary of the kidney transplant at a quiet party in Detroit.

They decided they want to become nurses.

"You both have jobs with us anytime you want to come back," said a University Hospital official.

Negro Joins Police

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A 33-year-old Negro has become the first of his race to join the Police Department in Birmingham.

He's Leroy Stover, 33, a veteran of the Korean War, who formerly was employed by a building-supply firm.

Said Stover: "I could not describe my feelings of elation over the appointment."

Police Chief Jamie Moore said Wednesday that another Negro would probably be hired also.

Civil rights groups have long protested the lack of Negroes on the Birmingham police force.

Advice to Distaff

NEW YORK (AP)—Advice on how to achieve executive status is contributed by Mrs. G. G. Michelson, a vice president at Macy's Department Store.

She told a seminar on "Women in Industry" Wednesday that the formula is compounded like this:

"Look like a woman, act like a lady, think like a man and work like a dog."

Dad of 10 Beaten Fatally

NEW YORK (AP) — Agripino Bonillo worked as a $71-a-week restaurant porter to support his 10 children, but it was his wish that even the eldest son, Jose, should stay in school.

That was before Bonillo was beaten to death on a Brooklyn street Monday night.

The loss left 20-year-old Jose at the head of a family of 11.

Wednesday Jose went to see William Normand, owner of the restaurant. He told him the family had no money asked for his father's job.

"I told him he would start any time he wanted," Normand said.

Private Investments Needed to Aid India

NEW YORK (AP) — Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has appealed for more private foreign investment to help India become self-sufficient.

In an address Wednesday night to the Economic Club of New York, she warned that without such assistance her country would be forced to seek financial aid from friendly nations.

"These years will certainly be crucial to the people of India in terms of the effort and sacrifice which they will be called upon to make," she said.

"They will also be crucial for our friends elsewhere in the world in that they will face the test of whether they intend to continue the support which they have given India so far, decisively enough in the future so as to make a difference," she added.

Mrs. Gandhi called the next 10 to 12 years a "critical period" in India's efforts to become self-reliant.

The prime minister flew here Wednesday from Washington for a three-day visit. In the capital she conferred with President Johnson. She is seeking a $1-billion emergency famine relief program for India.

To Fete Cotton Ginner

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The nation's outstanding cotton ginner will be honored next Sunday by the National Cotton Ginners' Association.

The association said Jack Funk of Harlingen, Tex., is part owner of a gin that has processed an average 10,000 bales of cotton each year for several years.

He gave FBI agents the slip Sunday night at Laurel.

Report Rocky's Agreement for Primary in June

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller has joined in an agreement to set the New York State primary election for June 28 and the state nominating conventions for Sept. 7 and 8, it was reported today.

Informed sources said the Republican governor had concluded an agreement to that effect in a telephone call Wednesday night to Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia.

Legislation embodying the agreement was ticketed for swift passage today by the Legislature before it adjourned for the Passover-Easter recess. The lawmakers will return to action April 18.

The agreement represented a compromise between Republican and Democratic viewpoints.

Democrats insisted on a June primary and hoped for a late-August convention, in hope of giving their ultimate nominee for governor the longest possible period in which to campaign against Rockefeller.

The governor and other Republicans were angling for a later, possible primary and convention, on the theory that a short campaign would work to the disadvantage of the Democratic challenger.

Pass OCS Bond

A steady stream of taxpayers lined up at the polls from 2 to 9 p. m. Wednesday at the Woodstock and West Hurley Schools, Phoenixia School and the Central Building, Schoharie.

The election was the fact that the present high school is equipped to handle only 900 students and the high school population in the district is expected to increase to 1,403 pupils by 1970.

Many observers feel that the Citizens Committee report, released last July, was a prime mover in the passage of the referendum. This committee, composed of 21 volunteer, uncompensated residents, spent six months studying the space problems of the district. Their non-partisan and highly researched report made a tremendous and lasting impression on voters.

The committee pointed out that space needs were far from "imaginary," said existing educational facilities for the high school were not adequate to provide the kind of educational program desired by the majority of the community for every the next five years. Overcrowding would begin by the fall of 1967, they forecast, and become a problem entirely too big to handle by 1970-71.

Will Connect Wings

The passage of the $1,910,800 bond issue paves the way for connecting the two existing wings of the high school with a two-story addition providing 20 new classrooms. Plans also call for doubling the present library space; increasing physical education and music and industrial arts facilities; and providing play space for the Bennett School, additional outdoor physical education facilities for the high school and added parking space through the purchase of 18.5 acres of land adjacent to the Boiceville site.

New Tax Rates

By voting the alterations, additions and purchase project, residents assumed financial responsibility for an estimated annual cost of $131,500 over a 20-year period. The Board of Education earlier said that estimated State building aid would contribute $38,135 annually; the cost to New York City was estimated at $36,820 annually; and local taxpayers (owners of 8,000 properties in the district) would foot the $56,545 remaining annual cost between themselves.

New tax rates, based on $1,000 of assessed valuation, which will come as part of the just voted project, are as follows:

Woodstock, $9.73; Lexington, $2.05; Shandaken, $3.87; Olive, $8.98; Hurley, $5.97; Marbletown, $4.85.

The entire building program is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by September 1967.

Newbold Morris, Gotham Politico Succumbs at 64

NEW YORK (AP)—Newbold Morris, former president of the City Council and former city parks commissioner, died of cancer Wednesday night at St. Luke's Hospital. He was 64.

Born in a five-story house on East 72nd street — the street on which he lived at the time of his death — Morris attended Yale University and won his law degree there in 1928.

LaGuardia Aide

A keen interest in public affairs drove him to become president of the City Board of Aldermen and later president of the City Council under the late Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

In 1945 and again in 1949, Morris tried unsuccessfully to become mayor, first on a "No Deal" ticket inspired by LaGuardia, and then as the Republican-Liberal candidate.

Former Mayor Robert F. Wagner named him parks commissioner in 1960. In the intervening years he had been active in civic and cultural affairs, serving as chairman of the New York City Center of Music and Drama, and working with the City Park Association.

He resigned as parks commissioner when John V. Lindsay became mayor last January.

Morris once recalled that as a young man he enjoyed getting up early for a brisk run around the Central Park Reservoir. In 1935, he finished second in the Middle Atlantic Figure Skating Competition.

Morris had three sons — two by his first wife, Margaret Coyle Thaw, whom he divorced — and a daughter.

He married Mrs. Constance Hand Jordan, daughter of famed jurist Learned Hand, in Gracie Mansion, the mayor's residence, in August, 1942.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I found a wonderful hint quite by accident, and I thought I'd pass it on to you.
While fixing breakfast the other morning, I first washed my hands, as usual, and not taking time to get the towel, I started right in making sausage patties with wet hands.

I noticed the grease of the meat did not stick to my hands, so I ran my hands under the cold water and tried it again. It worked perfectly.

It also works when making hamburger patties.
Mrs. M. A. Lyon

Dear Heloise:
Stretching the budget for a family of seven sometimes calls for stretching the imagination, too!

Dear Heloise:
I had three nice skirts which I had had for years, and they were still in very good condition.

A friend showed me a skirt she had made without a band, so I took a chance with one of mine.

I removed the band, turned down the top, and sewed some belting around the inside. Grosgrain ribbon is also good.

Now, I have three perfectly good skirts.
If need be, one could let the darts or seams out a bit.

Dear Heloise:
I wanted to share this cleaning tip with you:
When I scrub kitchen or bathroom floors, I slip a pair of old socks (men's) over my shoes.

Then, if I have to walk on the damp floor to pick up an article I left on the other side of the room, I can do so without leaving marks on the floor.
Mrs. W. S. Nunnemaker Jr.

Dear Heloise:
I have found what to do with all those spools of partly-used colored thread.

The bottles (large size) that hold effervescent headache tablets will hold four spools of colored thread!

One of my machine drawers will hold 12 bottles, therefore I have 48 spools of colored thread all neatly arranged and easy to see when I want a certain color. Remove the labels from the bottles before putting your spools of thread in them.

I tried this and found that the spools of thread fit in these bottles perfectly.
Imagine, no more tangled thread in sewing baskets, etc. And, all for free, too!

Hi, Heloise:

For a neater and more attractive medicine or pill shelf, save empty vitamin jars.

Simply dump in the pills, but be sure to put in the white prescription label.

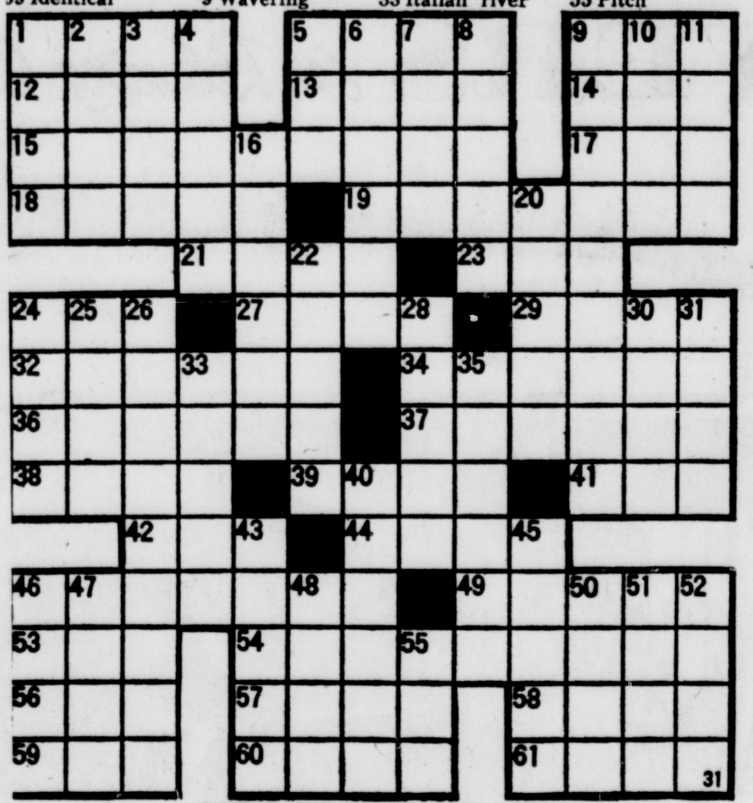

Because some medicines are kept in the kitchen, this adds to the decor, since vitamin bottles almost exactly match our spice jars.

Just be sure to keep the bottles out of reach of little children.

Sagar Leaves For New Post At Ohio Library

Donald J. Sagar, director of the Kingston City Library since 1964, leaves that post today to assume directorship of Elyria Public Library, Elyria, O.

While at the Ohio library he plans to complete work on his doctorate at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. Elyria is a city of 55,000, near Cleveland.

Under Sagar's leadership the local library has made many steps toward becoming a meaningful community institution. The Bookmobile and Children's Library, through the cooperation of the Kingston Lions Club, are two notable examples of strides made.

At Elyria, Sagar will supervise construction of a new three-quarter million dollar library and arrange transfer of 100,000 volumes from old quarters.

Prior to coming to Kingston, Sagar was senior documentalist on the Thor, Mace and Titan projects for General Motors and held a teaching assistantship at the University of Wisconsin.

Barbra Scores In Second Outing, Tops '65 Effort

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Last year at about this time, Barbra Streisand with a sleek, chic and tuneful one-woman show, shot dramatically into the television firmament. Now, after Wednesday night's stunning "Color Me Barbra," Miss Streisand is solidly in orbit. The second special actually topped her first one.

From the amusing little squiggle like a child's drawing that opened the hour to its almost quiet finish it was a handsome and imaginative production, the most stimulating entertainment of the season to date.

Miss Streisand first took us to the Philadelphia Museum of Art where in a chiffon and lace exaggeration of a maid's uniform, she scurried from hall to hall, pausing before this painting or that piece of sculpture and then was transformed by TV magic into the subject long enough for a number.

She sang "One Kiss" looking like and dressed like a Gainsborough lady, a despairing French lament posing like a sad model in an impressionist painting, "Where Or When" dressed like an Egyptian princess. Between numbers she indulged in bits of sly comedy.

Then came a gay circus sequence with Miss Streisand in a clown costume wandering around the ring singing affectionately to a pony, a llama, a baby elephant, an ant eater and a family of poised penguins.

The windup was Miss Streisand in a simple white gown singing more well-loved songs, including the old "It Had To Be You" and "C'est Si Bon."

Earlier, on ABC, there was a musical special in cartoon form updating the adventures of Alice in Wonderland. This time Alice, a very modern little girl, disappeared through the front of the family TV set in quest of her dog. But she shrank and grew tall, encountered the white rabbit, the mad hatter, the March hare and many of the other Lewis Carroll characters.

The lyrics were appropriate to the fantasy but the music, while tuneful, was not particularly catchy. The piece, though, did have a real dream quality about it. The drawings, particularly the animation of Alice were a bit stiff and primitively drawn. It was on the whole a bit of fun, suitable for family viewing but hardly memorable.

Travia Holds Key To Waterfront Woes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The fate of a compromise bill designed to clear up a sensitive labor problem on the New York-New Jersey docks rested today in the hands of Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia.

The Senate approved the measure Wednesday, and Assembly endorsement was sought by the Bi-State Waterfront Commission and dock employers as part of a guaranteed annual-wage plan for waterfront employees.

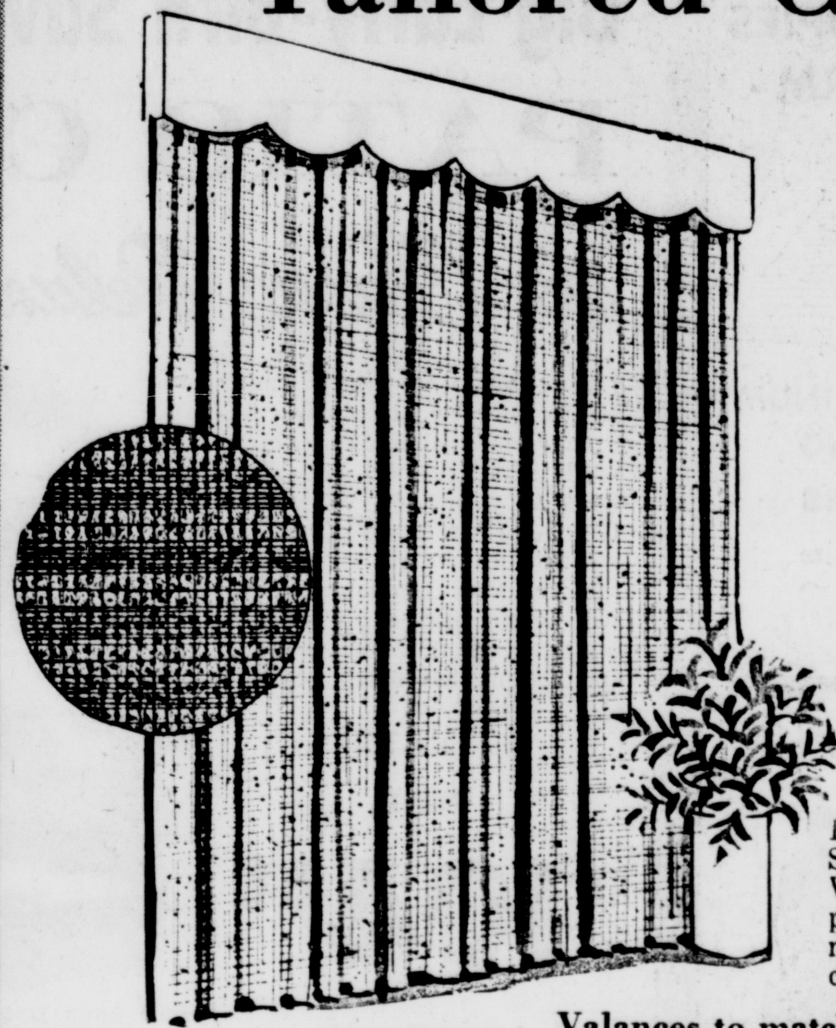

The plan is to go into effect Friday, but Travia refused to say whether he would permit a vote on the legislation before the Assembly recesses for the Passover-Easter holidays.

The bill swept through the Senate, after Gov. Rockefeller filed a request for immediate action, and was forwarded to the Assembly, where Travia suddenly balked.

"I haven't had a chance to read it," he said Wednesday. "Maybe I'll read it tomorrow and then I'll decide what to do with it."

Johnson Issues Price Caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today "prices are moving up much too fast for comfort" and, if necessary, he will call for new restraints on the economy "election year notwithstanding." Presumably he was talking about a tax increase among other moves.

At the same time, Johnson argued "the American economy is not shooting off into outer space at the moment. But he cautioned that the recent rate of price increases "could not long be tolerated."

In an address at a meeting of the National League of Cities, Johnson said it is too soon to determine whether anti-inflation actions already taken will curb rising prices.

While holding out the possibility of more drastic measures later, the President described the current situation as one demanding caution rather than more strenuous measures.

"We are touching the brakes, not clamping them on, not risking a skid into recession or depression," he said.

The chief executive said his administration doesn't know yet whether past actions will block overheating of the economy.

Look to Rocky For Compromise

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Leaders of the politically split Legislature looked to Gov. Rockefeller today to fashion a compromise in the deadlock over legislation providing medical care for the needy.

Time was running out for development of an accord on the issue as the Legislature sought to dispose of docketed business before leaving for a 17-day Passover-Easter recess, beginning Friday.

While the leaders groped for a compromise on the rival Democratic and Republican medicare plans, the legislative front was enlivened by other developments.

Sees Costly Changes

"Anyone who has driven on Linderman Avenue knows that the street cannot handle the present traffic, no less what will be added by 300 new families," he said. "The physical changes in streets and sewerage facilities alone will place the taxpayers of Kingston on the losing end of this so-called bargain."

The more than 200 families who have filed a written protest are taxpayers who want to see our city grow, but not if it means a net loss to the city's already overburdened taxpayers," Levine said.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovered moderately early this afternoon but trading slackened considerably.

First-hour volume was a million shares less than Wednesday's.

Wall Street seemed to be getting accustomed to President Johnson's frequent references to the possibility of a tax increase and some analysts said that the market's decline already has discounted such an event.

Blue chips and glamour stocks made good recoveries.

Rails shrugged off the news of a strike against eight major carriers. The group was up irregularly.

General Motors was ahead more than a point even though GM contended that its production lines would be affected within 24 to 48 hours if the rail strike is not settled quickly.

Drugs, electronics, airlines, motor office equipments and farm implements were among the gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 341.1 with industrials up 1.1, rails up .3 and utilities up 1.1.

Card Burners Beaten

BOSTON (AP) — An angry, jeering crowd today beat up six men moments after they burned their draft cards on the steps of South Boston District Court.

Four were knocked down and pounced upon on the courthouse steps. Two were attacked inside the court building.

FBI agents and Boston police saved the six from the shouting crowd estimated by police at 200 men and women.

The six said they burned their draft cards to protest U.S. participation in the Viet Nam war.

1 CD MOBILE HOSPITAL—A portable 200-bed disaster hospital was set up at Municipal Auditorium Monday night by personnel of Kingston Hospital in a Civil Defense exercise. Eight hospital sections were set up in detail, then were used to treat simulated disaster casualties. The session was part of a program to train community teams of physicians, nurses, other hospital personnel and medical aides to turn a school building or other public building into a surgical improvised Emergency Hospital after an enemy attack or major natural disaster. Dr. Charles A. Galyon was medical director of the 76-member team. Miss Rosemary Pellegrino, R.N., was director of nurses and Richard Geuss served as executive officer. Principals in the photo include Miss Louise Myers, operating room supervisor of Kingston Hospital and Miss Pellegrino. The training program was sponsored by the New York State Health Department's Bureau of Medical Defense, the Ulster County Office of Civil Defense and Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Lillian Howell and Earl Robinson, training specialists from the State Health Department, assisted with the training. Emmet Shields, district administrator for Medical Defense from the Southern District Office of the State Health Department, and Charles L. Arnold, Ulster County deputy director of Civil Defense, were instrumental in setting up the program and both were present to observe the exercise. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr) delays and an outright refusal to meet any issue, including a training program for firemen, at the bargaining table.

Parallel Lines Not Hit

Heath said any training program for firemen would be mainly as apprentice engineers and therefore in the jurisdiction of his engineers' union, not Gilbert's firemen.

While the walkout reached into 38 states, no large segment of the nation would be without any rail transportation because parallel lines were not struck, Gilbert said. He said that since the strike was limited to eight roads with about 12.2 per cent of the nation's track mileage, it "cannot represent a national emergency."

Gilbert said the strike would not affect the Pennsylvania's lines east of Harrisburg, Pa., "thereby keeping the heavily traveled Washington-New York corridor open for passengers and freight."

The union chief said also that his men had instruction to "handle and transport troop trains, hospital trains, milk trains and cars loaded with priority materials and supplies designated by the government as essential to national defense."

The strike hit as a surprise, because on Monday of this week in Washington, Judge Alexander Holtzoff of U.S. District Court issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting a BLF&E strike. The union had contended it would be free to strike as of last midnight when federal arbitration awards of two years ago expired — awards under which some 17,000 firemen's jobs were eliminated.

Predicts Short Strike

Wolfe predicted the strike would be "short-lived," saying "we'll be in court just as quickly as we can."

Supervisory personnel were used by the Pennsylvania, to get some trains rolling belatedly from Pittsburgh.

At Denver the Union Pacific, the nation's biggest railroad, clerks, switchmen and engineer began work before the firemen pickets appeared.

Th Boston & Maine, a line serving about 12,000 commuters, "is completely tied up by this illegal walkout," R. W. Pickard, the carrier's vice president, said in Boston. "We can't run trains. We're out of operation."

Efforts were being made to set up extra bus service.

Traffic was stopped at some points of the 4,100-mile Seaboard, a spokesman in Richmond, Va. said, with pickets out in Richmond, Birmingham, Savannah and Wildwood, Fla.

A spokesman in Albany, N.Y., for the New York Central Railroad said its lines had not been affected.

Likes Bikes Better

ROME (AP)—At the age of 91, attorney Carlo Monti took his first plane ride to return home to Novara from Rome. "Frankly," he commented, "between an airplane and a bicycle, I prefer the bicycle." In 1964 he won the Milan Salsomaggiore, one of Italy's early bicycle road races.

Reports Rail Delay

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Delaware & Hudson Railroad reported a delay today in some freight movement because of a strike against two connecting railroads.

"We can't deliver or receive freight from either the Boston & Maine or the Pennsylvania Railroad," Alan Duston, assistant to the D&H president, said. The D&H connects with the B & M at Mechanville and with the Pennsylvania at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"We have filled up their yards with railroad cars and already they're beginning to back up the lines," Dustin said. "And the longer the strike lasts, the worse it's going to get."

Soviet Launches Unmanned Shot For Moon Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched an apparently unmanned rocket in an attempt to put an artificial satellite in near orbit around the moon, the Soviet official news agency Tass reported.

Tass said the rocket carried "an automatic space station," the term usually applied to unmanned space probe.

"The main purpose of the station is to test a system ensuring the setting up of an artificial moon satellite with the object of exploring near lunar outer space," Tass said.

It said the probe is "also testing the systems installed on board for putting the station on a selenocentric (near lunar) orbit."

Selenocentric means centered on the moon.

Robbers Get Million In Cash and Jewels

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Robbers smashed a luxury hotel's lockboxes early today and stole an estimated $1 million in cash and jewels owned by guests who thronged the hotel for Passover.

Similar raids during the busy Passover season last year netted big hauls.

Larry J. Paskow, owner of the Harbor Island Spa Hotel at North Bay Village, said his estimate of $1 million loot there was conservative.

Paskow said one of four intruders, two masked, held a clerk at gunpoint while accomplices broke open the lockboxes with a hammer and punch.

A bellboy and a laundry delivery man were locked in a restroom while the gang operated, Paskow said.

Los Angeles Fogged-in

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Heavy fog that crept across the coast Wednesday night brought commercial air traffic at busy Los Angeles International Airport to a virtual standstill.

Traffic resumed early today. Many outgoing flights were canceled and incoming airliners were diverted to a smaller airport at Ontario, Calif., about 30 miles east of Los Angeles, the Federal Aviation Agency said.

The Los Angeles airport had zero ceiling and zero visibility most of the time from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Heads Pure Waters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Kansas man will direct New York state's Pure Waters program, under terms of a $28,000-a-year appointment by Gov. Rockefeller.

Dwight F. Metzler of Topeka, executive secretary of the Kansas Water Resources Board, was named today as a deputy commissioner in the State Health Department. The job is new.

Cost Price Adjusted
For Stock Dividend

Q—"One of my stocks, Northern Illinois Gas, has me worried. In 1961, I bought it at 60; today, it is down to 41. What is your explanation of this decline? Would you advise switching and if so, to what? I am aware of a 50 per cent stock dividend in 1964." G. R.

A—I commend you on holding a strong and growing public utility. Although you are aware of the 1964 stock dividend, you did not revise your cost price downward to account for it. You should do this by dividing your cost price (60) by 150, which gives you an adjusted cost price of 40.

You have, in my opinion, not the slightest reason to be concerned about Northern Illinois Gas, which supplies natural gas to a large area outside of Chicago. The company has a long record of expanding earnings and has just raised its dividend for the eighth time in 10 years. Your shares sold at 53 1/2 last year but the recent trend toward higher money rates has hurt this issue and all the utilities.

Many conservative investors and institutions tend to shift from utilities to bonds when interest rates turn up. By all means, hold your stock, which has quadrupled in value over the last decade.

Q—"Is there any advantage in converting my Pan American World Airways 4 1/2 per cent bonds into common stock?" J. M.

A—"The only advantage in doing so is to prevent a forced conversion at the company's option. The bonds are redeemable this year and thereafter at declining rates. At present, your bonds—selling at around $4,000 apiece—pretty thoroughly reflect the conversion value and your 1.18 per cent current yield is little more than you would receive on the common.

A major advantage in holding convertibles develops when a reasonable yield is received. In that event, being bonds, they offer a hedge against decline which is not present in the common to which they are related. I advise you to convert.

Erwin Plan Funds Used to Rebuild Many Town Roads

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County said today that in the 13 years the State's Town Highway Improvement Program, better known as the "Erwin Plan" in memory of its sponsor, the late Senator Austin W. Erwin of Genesee, has been in effect, almost 15,000 miles of town highways throughout the state have been reconstructed.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that these town highway projects, which represent about 30 per cent of all the town roads in state, have been completed at a total cost of over $131 million dollars, with the state paying over $74 million of the cost, and thus relieving the tax burden at the local level.

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that last year the state, through the Erwin Plan, contributed over $5 million dollars to 625 towns in the state to reconstruct over a thousand miles of local roads, and this year a record high number of projects, 1,199, have been planned.

The 1966 program will re-build 1,166 miles of town roads at a total cost of $10,661,727, with the state paying almost $6 million dollars and the 638 towns involved paying the balance. Wilson also said that since the Erwin Plan went into effect in 1952, 750 towns representing about 80 per cent of the state's 932 towns have been aided by the state-wide program.

The Ulster County Assemblyman stated that between 1952 and 1965 over 83 miles of town highways in Ulster County have been reconstructed under the Town Highway Improvement Program at a total cost of $686,098. The state's share of these costs in the county has been $411,134, with the local towns contributing the balance of $274,964. During 1966 there will be an additional seven miles of local roads which have been scheduled for reconstruction at an estimated cost of $61,380. Wilson also stated that over 32 miles of town highways have been improved under the state program at a cost of almost $75,000 between the years 1959 and 1965, and that an additional $6,600 will be spent on this additional work in 1966 to improve over three miles of local roads.

Rocky Names Reilly To Rockland Bench

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Senate had before it for confirmation today Gov. Rockefeller's appointment of John J. Reilly, assistant state attorney general, to be Rockland County Court judge.

Rockefeller named Reilly, 54, to the post Wednesday to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Herbert E. Henion. The term of the appointment ends Dec. 31. A resident of Upper Nyack, Reilly has served in the attorney general's office since 1955.

Valenti, Linked To Cosa Nostra, Is Hospitalized

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Frank Valenti of Rochester, who police describe as a Cosa Nostra leader, was in St. Mary's Hospital today after, hospital officials said, he suffered a mild heart attack and experienced ulcer trouble.

Valenti was admitted Wednesday and was reported in satisfactory condition.

State Police said they have sought since last October to serve a subpoena on Valenti to appear as a witness before the State Investigation Commission.

The commission suspended its closed-door hearing in October into alleged organized crime in the Rochester and Western New York area.

The hearing was suspended because more undercover work was needed, Commission Chairman Goodman A. Sarachan said earlier.

Police said they did not plan to subpoena Valenti while he remained in the hospital.

Cancer Test Patients Are in Good Condition

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Four cancer patients undergoing an experimental treatment to prolong their lives are in good condition, but it is too early to tell whether the spread of cancerous cells has been arrested, a surgeon said today.

Three of the four patients are engaged in a round-robin exchange of white blood cells, Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler, associate chief cancer research surgeon at Roswell Memorial Park Institute, added.

Whether the treatment is successful will not be known for four to six weeks after the completion of the blood-cell exchange, Nadler said.

Two patients, Robert F. Allen, 29, of Tucson, Ariz., and Harry T. Griffith, 63, of Flouertown, Pa., exchanged malignant tissue March 4 in the first phase of the treatment. They began receiving each other's white cells 10 days later as part of the second phase.

Larry Rink of Centerville, Mich., and Thomas E. Welker of Conrad, Mich., both 21, began a similar treatment March 18 at Roswell Park, the state's cancer-research and treatment center.

Nadler said Wednesday that Allen and Rink are now paired in the cell exchange.

Woman, Cop Will Share Reward In Man's Capture

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A suburban housewife's memory for facts and a former policeman's memory for names led to the capture of an accused slayer and their sharing a $4,896 reward.

Mrs. Ann Kane of Penfield and James D. Coffed, a former policeman in Depew, near Buffalo, were rewarded Wednesday for furnishing the information that led to the capture and conviction of James R. Moore, 31, of suburban Webster on Sept. 20, 1962.

Moore, a gardener, later pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Pamela Moss, 14, who lived a few doors from Mrs. Kane.

Moore was sentenced to life imprisonment. The girl disappeared Sept. 6, 1962, and her body was found floating in a quarry pond two days later.

Mrs. Kane, whose husband had hired Moore, told police she saw the man leave her yard and walk toward a trail leading to the quarry.

Police said Coffed, reading about the slaying in a newspaper recalled that as a policeman in 1960 he investigated a morals case in Depew involving Moore.

The Penfield community raised the reward money. When numerous persons filed claims for it, the State Supreme Court was asked to dispose of it.

Justice Domenick L. Gabrielli authorized the payment Wednesday.

Mrs. Kane said she plans to contribute her share to a church. Coffed of Depew said his share is "going into the bank."

Mrs. Kane lives at 189 Sawmill Drive.

Cape Crews Wrestle With Launch Problems

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Launch crews and engineers wrestled today with problems that have caused three straight space launch postponements here after the countdowns reached the final phases.

Two of the delays, Monday and Wednesday, involved an Atlas-Agena rocket and its Orbiting Astronomical Observatory payload. The other, on Tuesday, was an Atlas-Centaur rocket whose goal is the first double ignition of a high-powered hydrogen engine in space.

No new launching date has been set for either rocket. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said many problems remain to be solved before they can be fired.

Hawaii was the last state to be admitted to the union.

Given New Post By Ferroxcube

Ferroxcube Corporation has named Allen Michels to the position of assistant product manager for the company's line of ferrite memory cores, planes and stacks. The announcement of Michels' appointment was made last week by Robert Klonfas, Ferroxcube's marketing manager. In his new post, Michels will have complete responsibility for all core, plane and stack marketing activities and product line profitability.

Before joining Ferroxcube, Michels was manager of Market and Product Planning for Nuclear Chicago Corporation's physical science instrumentation line, a position he held since July 1964. Prior to that time he had been Applications Engineer for the R.I.D.L. Division of Nuclear Chicago Corporation. A graduate of Illinois Institute of Technology with a B.S. in Mathematics, Michels also attended the University of Illinois where he served as a research assistant working in pulse instrumentation for analysis of nuclear radiation. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Institute of Physics. Society for Applied Spectroscopy. A paper entitled Mossbauer Effect—a review of applications and instrumentation, written by Michels is scheduled to appear in the June, 1966 issue of the Society for Applied Spectroscopy journal.

Confiscate Cache Of Queens Pistols

NEW YORK (AP) — A cache of 192 stolen pistols has been confiscated in a Queens novelty store in what Dist. Atty. Nat H. entel called the "biggest seizure of this kind in New York City in many years."

He said if the five cases of six-shot, .22-caliber revolvers had "fallen into wrong hands the city would have been posed with an immense problem of public safety." The pistols were valued at $20,000 on the illegal market.

Hentel disclosed the haul Wednesday, but its discovery came Tuesday night after a patrolman accidentally came across one of the weapons in a Queens tavern.

Patrolman James Quinn was in a bar and grill when a pistol fell from the pocket of Edward Walsh, 28, of Centerport, N.Y. After Walsh's arrest and booking for violation of the anti-weapons law, he led officers to the store where the arsenal was stored.

Hentel said the pistols were recently hijacked from a shipment to the New York area. The storeowner, Raymond Zalta of Brooklyn, was booked on charges of receiving stolen merchandise and violating the anti-weapons law.

Annual 'Pap' Test

Attorney Named To Head Fish Drive in Ulster

Edward T. Feeney, has been named Ulster County Chairman for Hamilton Fish Jr. in the latter's bid for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 28th Congressional District.

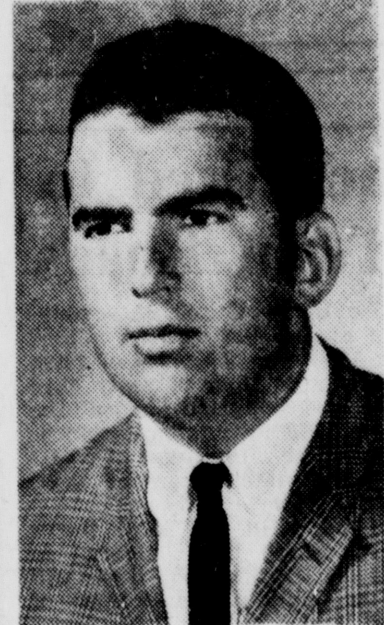

In taking over the Ulster organizational work for Fish the 27-year-old Kingston attorney said: "There is no doubt in my mind that Hamilton Fish Jr. is the only congressional candidate in this race who can beat Joseph Y. Resnick."

In speaking of the county-wide organization to back the Dutchess County congressional candidate, Feeney said: "As of this minute we have a solid organization in most towns of the county. This is an organization made up of workers and real vote getters."

"I am confident that Hamilton Fish will win the Primary Election and will go on to defeat the Democratic incumbent. Ham is a man of stature, ability and honesty. Every day he is out campaigning, he is picking up additional strength."

Feeney was born and raised in Kingston; graduated from Fordham University in 1960 and from Albany Law School in 1963. He is associated with the law firm of Rusk, Rusk, and Feeney, Fair Street, Kingston.

Since his graduation from law

EDWARD T. FEENEY

school, Feeney has taken an active part in county politics, and is a former treasurer of the Ulster County Young Republican Club.

Married to the former Mary Jane Reed of Pleasant Valley, Dutchess County, the Feeneys expect their first child in April. Feeney is a member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, and the Kingston YMCA. Mr. and Mrs. Feeney worship at St. Joseph's Church.

"I am delighted that Ted Feeney has joined our organization and has taken over the important task of heading up our Ulster County team," Fish said in naming Feeney to the post. "Ted represents the young, energetic, and dedicated type of young person of the Republican Party of tomorrow. He has both energy and political know-how."

New Laws Explained

By Congressman

Joseph Y. Resnick

Pet Protection Bill

An incident involving this area may soon result in national legislation to put an end to pet-stealing and inhumane treatment of animals.

Last Thursday morning, March 24, the House Committee on Agriculture voted unanimous approval of H.R. 13881—a bill “to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to regulate the transportation, sale, and handling of dogs and cats intended to be used for purposes of research or experimentation, and for other purposes.”

As is the custom in most House Committees, the bill bears the name of the Chairman of the Subcommittee to which it was referred, Congressman Poage. It is with great pride, however, that I am able to point out that the bill, with some minor modifications, is an almost word-for-word copy of H.R. 9743—a bill I wrote and introduced on July 9, 1965, after an incident in which I became involved concerning dognapping.

Start of Story

The story started Saturday, July 3, 1965. On that day, I became involved in the search for a Dalmatian that had been stolen from a family in Slatington, Pa. A few days earlier, a truck carrying a load of dogs toward New York State had been stopped by State Police in Easton, Pa. The shipment included several Dalmatians. The driver of the truck was unable to produce a bill of sale or any other proof of ownership of the animals. Photos of the dogs were printed in Pennsylvania newspapers, and a Mrs. Lakavage was certain that her stolen Dalmatian was among them. I was contacted because the driver had told the police he was taking the animals to a farm in Ulster County. In the meantime, the dealer had returned with a bill of sale for the animals, signed by his brother-in-law, and was permitted to resume transportation of the dogs.

By the time Mrs. Lakavage and I were able to trace the dogs to their true destination, Montefiore Hospital in New York City, the Dalmatian had already succumbed following an operation on its heart, and had already been cremated.

This incident opened my eyes to the existence of a widespread, highly profitable, and utterly immoral business of pet-stealing. Well organized rings of so-called “dealers,” I found, were stealing dogs and cats, transporting them over state lines, and selling them to research laboratories and hospitals. Along the way, the animals were subjected to the filthiest and most inhumane conditions imaginable.

Because a substantial amount of animal research throughout the country is conducted in part or in whole with federal funds, I felt that the government had a legitimate interest in this problem. At that time I publicly stated “We are going to look into this whole aspect of buying animals for research with federal funds.” And I called for an investigation of the sale of dogs for medical research.

25 Others Followed

On July 9 I introduced a bill to regulate this unlawful traffic. It was the first bill of its kind ever presented to Congress. After becoming familiarized with the wide-spread scope of this unsavory business—involving perhaps as many as 2 million stolen family pets annually—many other congressmen co-sponsored my “Pet Protection Bill.” All in all, more than 25 congressmen subsequently submitted bills on this subject.

Last Sept. 2 hearings were held on these bills, and three weeks ago a second round of hearings was held. Following these hearings, the subcommittee unanimously reported the bill out. This set the stage for last week’s action by the full committee which, I am proud to report, modified the subcommittee’s version of the bill so that the final version is virtually identical to the original bill that I submitted on July 9.

Key Provisions

Key provisions of the bill are as follows:

No research facility shall purchase or transport dogs or cats without first obtaining a license from the secretary of agriculture.

A research facility may only acquire dogs or cats from persons holding a valid license as a dealer.

No dealer shall sell or transport a dog or cat to any research facility—or deal with another dealer—without first being licensed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to establish humane standards governing the handling and transportation of dogs and cats, and to promote their health, well-being and safety.

Since there is no intention to interfere with the legitimate, necessary functions of research laboratories, there is no authority granted to control the handling of these animals after they have been delivered to the research facility.

Other Provisions

No dealer can be licensed until he has demonstrated that his facilities comply with standards of cleanliness and humane treatment established by the Secretary.

All cats and dogs handled by these dealers or research laboratories shall be marked or identified in a humane manner, so visions in effectuating the purposes of this act, and of any state, local or municipal legislation or ordinance on the same subject.

No dealer shall sell or otherwise dispose of any cat or dog within a period of five business days after acquiring such an animal. This provision is to make sure that persons who have had animals stolen have enough time to check around with local dealers.

The cost of financing this act will come from the fees paid for the licenses issued.

The primary purpose of this bill is to eliminate pet stealing and to end the indescribably horrible conditions, the “concentration camps for pets,” in which dogs and cats are held and transported by dealers before being sold to laboratories.

Similar bills are now in the Senate, and the Senate Committee began hearings last Friday. Right now, the outlook is this: We are very hopeful that my bill will come up before the House before too long. We consider its chances for passage excellent. The Senate Committee has yet to issue its report, but preliminary indications are that it will be favorable. I have been conducting “informal” surveys among my colleagues and find universal support for the bill. Consequently, hope is running high that when the bill does come up for a vote in both Houses it will be passed without much difficulty.

We consider ourselves a humane, civilized people. This bill will help prove that we really are.

The Amateur Athletic Union was formed in 1888.

Study Bill on Judges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation’s federal judges are being shown two proposed laws that deal with the problem of incompetent U.S. judges.

The laws were framed last month at a meeting of the U.S. Judicial Conference. They would set up new procedures to examining a judge’s fitness. Under the proposal, if a judge was found incompetent he would be replaced.

At the conference meeting, it was decided to circulate the proposals on a confidential basis among the judges, pending final approval or disapproval when the conference convenes again in the fall.

Judges can now be removed from office only by impeachment in the House and conviction by the Senate.

Protests Mount To Halt of UR Work in Beacon

Vigorous protests mounted today to the halt of a multi-million dollar Urban Renewal project in the Hudson Valley city of Beacon, announced earlier this week by Mayor Charles Wolf of that Dutchess County city.

Mayor Wolf said that work on the city’s “Project One,” involving proposed construction of 175 units in a 100-acre tract of land, would be stopped for several months while the entire redevelopment plan was “re-studied and re-evaluated.”

Wolf said that the project has caused fights between friends and between relatives which have resulted in “charges of racial overtones.” During the suspension of the UR program, the city’s Republican-controlled Common Council reportedly was seeking “daily discussions” of the plan and a proposed referendum.

Meanwhile a political leader and a clergyman were among those who issued statements on the mayor’s action.

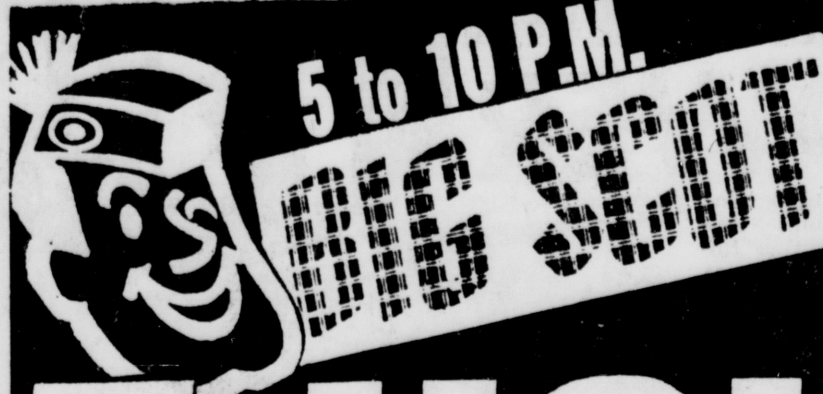

Jack Jones Divorced

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Jack Jones, 27, was divorced Wednesday from his 30-year-old wife, Lee, Jones, who alleged that she neglected her household duties, was ordered to pay alimony and child support totaling $1,500 monthly.

Beacon’s Democratic Chairman Robert L. Cahill was quoted as saying that had Mayor Wolf “fulfilled a promise to establish a bi-partisan Urban Renewal Commission, he would not now be faced with the necessity of paying a political debt to his campaign workers, who are demanding a referendum.”

And, the Rev. Thomas Money-maker II, Vicar of St. Andrew’s Church Beacon, a noted leader in civil rights activities in that city, said that he felt that the mayor’s action was a “drastic mistake” and might result in “further racial tension.”

The Episcopal Vicar reportedly claimed that there has been a lack of information about the city’s UR project.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One year ago — President Johnson condemned the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon and said it would only strengthen our determination to continue our support of the people of Viet Nam.

Today is Thursday, March 31, the 90th day of 1966. There are 275 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1854, the Treaty of Kanagawa was signed, opening the secluded island kingdom of Japan to ships of the United States.

On this date

In 1840, President Martin Van Buren established the 10-hour day as standard on government work.

In 1880, Wabash, Ind., became the first American town to be wholly lighted by electricity, under the Brush system of arc lights.

In 1889, Paris celebrated the completion of the Eiffel Tower.

In 1933, the Civilian Conservation Corps was authorized by an act of Congress.

In 1939, Britain and France pledged aid to Poland in the event of aggression.

Ten years ago — The British press attacked the Soviet security chief, Gen. Ivan Serov, as "a thug" on his visit to Britain.

Five years ago — Russia renewed its attack on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and U.N. operations in the Congo in General Assembly debate.

Johnson was treated for turns and apparent shock in Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hospital here.

Johnson, an unemployed laborer, lived alone, police said. His address is 213 Sheppard St.

There is more than one telephone for every three persons in the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Columbia Pushes Hunt for Man In $1,528 Heist

Authorities in Columbia County today continued search for a second man wanted for questioning in connection with a $1,528 burglary last weekend at the Canada Dry Corp. plant on Route 6, Greenport.

Claverack State Police BCI Investigators Rudy Leggieri and William Wolfe arrested Leon Bazonski, 34, of 40 Prospect Avenue, Hudson, on a charge of third degree burglary. Bazonski was employed as a fork lift truck driver at the plant.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Lugert, Town of Greenport, and waived examination. The case was referred to the grand jury.

A safe in the Canada Dry plant office was ransacked and the money taken. Investigators Wolfe and Leggieri suspected since they were assigned to the case that the burglary was an "inside job." They noted that on Monday morning the safe was found locked, but further check of the contents disclosed the $1,528 missing.

Authorities allege that Bazonski finished work at 1 a. m. Saturday, and returned accompanied by an accomplice and took the money from the safe after obtaining keys.

Kingston Rotary Elects Directors

Kingston Rotary Club elected five new directors at its luncheon-meeting Wednesday. Robert Markes will serve a one-year term on the board and Louis J. Smith, Ralph J. Carpino, Rev. Edwin C. Coon and George H. Devine will serve three-year terms.

John Holochuck, executive director of Kingston Boys' Club Inc. since 1956, outlined the work of the club and invited members of Rotary to visit the Greenkill Avenue club building which has undergone extensive alterations and repairs.

Holochuck is a graduate of Springfield College and holds an M.A. Degree from the School of Education, New York University. He also is a graduate of the Boys' Clubs of America course at NYU. Boys' Clubs have been getting through to boys for more than a century. Today, some 680 Boys' Clubs are helping 700,000 youngsters grow up. Boys' Clubs make the process a trifle bit more orderly, a little easier, a lot more interesting, offering members, along with recreational opportunities, the essential foundations for productive, responsible adulthood.

George V. Hutton, another guest of the club, told of the movement to preserve "Olana," former home of Frederic E. Church, noted landscape artist, at Hudson, N. Y. as a museum. The annual convention of Rotary International District 721 will be held April 17 to 19 at Grossinger's.

Upstate Reports Flying Objects In 4-County Area

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Unidentified Flying Objects, variously described as from 5,000 to 50,000 feet up, were reported over a four-county area in Central New York Wednesday night.

An Air Force operations spokesman at Griffiss Air Force Base, Rome, noted, however, that Strategic Air Command bombers and tankers were aloft east of the area during the time the sightings were reported.

The objects — or aircraft — with flashing red, white, blue and green lights prompted hundreds of telephone calls to the sheriff's departments in Cayuga, Oswego, Ontario and Seneca Counties.

Sheriff's Deputy Harry Warren of Cayuga County in Auburn told The Associated Press that the police radio network crackled with reports of sightings from about 10:40 p.m. to shortly before midnight.

He said two colleagues, deputies David Mulberry and Alex Zukovsky, sighted an object over Weedsport, north of here, after the first call came from a Mrs. Floyd Marvin.

He said they reported that it hovered, flashed lights and zipped about the skies noiselessly.

Sees Hearings Forming Rational U. S. Policy

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which he heads may have provided "a first step toward developing a rational policy" toward Red China.

The Arkansas Democrat told a reporter that free and frank testimony by experts on Asia "has removed the taboo" on discussion of the China issue.

If the administration should decide ultimately to recognize the Peking regime and drop opposition to its admission to the United Nations, he said, the preponderance of the testimony "would give it a little more leeway" in which to operate.

A majority of the witnesses urged a policy of continued military containment around the periphery of China, combined with efforts to draw Peking into the United Nations and other international groups.

Met Opens in New Surroundings Sept. 16; Skyscraper Will Replace Old Building

By MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera is a company of singers surrounded by an orchestra, dancers and a variety of production and administrative people. It is one of the world and should have the best, most modern fully equipped house in which to perform.

That is the sensible view. The Metropolitan Opera is a building just south of Times Square, where second and third act scenery is stacked outside on the sidewalk leaning against the back wall while the first act is going on, where the acoustics are wonderful, where it's nearly always too hot for audience comfort and where Caruso sang. It's a building soon to be torn down and a lot of people love it and hate to see it go.

That is the nostalgic view. The sensible view is prevailing. On Sept. 16, the Met will open its 1966-67 season in a new $42.7-million building at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. It will be cooled, it will have 3,800 seats, 175 more than the Met has now, it will have storage space and rehearsal space and two orchestra pit elevators.

Rudolf Bing, Met general manager since 1950, says: "It won't look like the old house at all. You cannot expect in 1966 to build a 19th century building, but it will be traditional within contemporary limits. It will have tiers of boxes, beautiful redwood, gold leafing in the ceiling, red chairs and a crystal chandelier. It will be very elegant. It will have nothing of the mixture of antisepic hospital and airplane terminal style you see in Europe today."

"You can't tell about acoustics now — not all the chairs are in yet. But Justino Diaz and Leontyne Price — who will open the next season in Samuel Barber's new Antony and Cleopatra — just sang the National Anthem from the stage without accompaniment and it sounded very well."

The present house, soon to be torn down to make room for a skyscraper, opened Oct. 22, 1883, with Charles Gounod's "Faust." It cost $2 million, including the land.

The Met is selling everything it can — light fixtures, seats, even tassels from the gold curtain for $5 each.

Nostalgia will prevail on the last night of this season, April 16, at 39th St. and Broadway. The last night — sold out long ago — won't be an opera. Too many stars want to sing and each person in the audience wants to hear his favorites.

More than 50 stars will be able to say "Oh, yes, I sang at the last night in the old house."

This is the old wooden stage where great music, and some that wasn't, has been created for 82 years. It is where Leo Slezak gazed at a departing mechanical swan pulling a raft on which he, as Lohengrin, should have been standing, and loudly inquired, "What time does the next swan leave?"

Where Russian bass Feodor Chaliapin, under cover of a language his audience didn't understand, once sang to his valet in the wings, "Go home and get me a suit of underwear." Where the great duo, Flagstad and Melchior, sang naughty stories to each other in German, performance after Wagnerian performance, and the music critics never caught on.

ACCEPTING A 'LIFT' HOME A SHOCK TO HER MOTHER

Q: Is it proper for a girl to accept a "lift" from a man to whom she has never been introduced but knows by sight? This is the situation: The other day while downtown waiting for a bus to go home, this young man came along in his car. When he saw me, he stopped and asked me if he could drive me home. I accepted. When he drove up to the house, my mother saw me getting out of the car. She asked who the young man was. When I explained, she was shocked at my having accepted a ride with a stranger and said it was a very cheap thing to do. While I was never formally introduced to him, I didn't feel that he was a stranger as he lives in my neighborhood and I see him often. Doesn't this fact alter the situation?

A: If you had never seen the man before, of course you should not have accepted the lift. But since he lives in your neighborhood and you know him by sight and were sure that he was a perfectly respectable person, there is no reason why you should not have accepted his kind offer.

Pink and Blue for Babies

Q: In my day, pink was considered the proper color for girl babies and blue for boy babies and we always followed this rule when giving presents. My daughter tells me that this is no longer true and that any color may be used for both. I would like your opinion on this.

A: The convention that pink is for girl and blue for a boy does still exist. But baby clothes are made today in such lovely colors that gifts may be selected in any color that you think would be becoming to the baby.

Returning Engagement Presents

Q: I was engaged six months ago. My parents gave a large engagement party for me and I received many presents. Quite a few of these were money gifts. I used the money I received to buy my china. Two weeks ago my engagement was broken. I know I'm supposed to return the gifts, but what do I do about the money which I have already spent? Under the circumstances, should I just return the material gifts?

A: You should make every effort to return the money as well as the gifts even if you can't do so immediately.

CantorLohreHonoredAt Youth Conclave; Honorary President

At the Regional Spring Election Conclave of the Central New York Federation of Temple Youth, an affiliate of the National Federation of Temple Youth, which took place March 25-27 at Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue, Cantor Julian C. Lohre, advisor to the Temple Emanuel Youth Group and for three years advisor to the region, was honored for his outstanding service.

Fred Morgan, past president of CNYFTY and current National Board member said in part: "I first saw Cantor Lohre four years ago in this very temple, at my first conclave. I saw him in Utica for the first time as the advisor of the Central New York region. I was struck by the Cantor's ability to advise judiciously, get along well with regional board members and act as a stimulant or a calming influence when necessary. As president, I always knew I could turn to my right and find Cantor Lohre sitting there with words of encouragement or guidance in any given situation. It is impossible for me to speak fully for the two thousand or more young adults with whom Cantor Lohre has worked in his years as CNYFTY advisor and as advisor of his local youth group, but I shall do my best. Cantor Lohre is a great guy. Good guys are fun and easy to talk to and work with, but they are dispensable. Cantor Lohre has become indispensable to all of us who have known him. Thank you, Cantor Lohre, for all of CNYFTY, past and present."

Mr. Morgan, with Bert Devorsetz, outgoing president of CNYFTY, presented Cantor Lohre with a sculpture of Moses holding aloft the tablets of the Law. Mr. Devorsetz also announced that Cantor Lohre had been elected Honorary President of CNYFTY.

Thodore Broido, executive director of the Greater New York Council of Reform Congregations, an affiliate of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, also spoke of Cantor Lohre's work with youth. Mr. Broido said "My purposes in appearing before this conclave are: to honor Cantor Lohre, to explain the position of the Greater New York Council in regard to NITY, and to honor the memory of Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, who passed away recently."

Rabbi Bloom was planning to address this conclave before his untimely death. He was close to the youth of the temple, and to all those of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations who knew him and worked with him. I hope that Mrs. Bloom will live a happy life and be comforted in her sorrow."

Speaking of Cantor Lohre, Mr. Broido continued: "The relationship between an advisor and youth is much more complex than it would seem simply from the view of the youth or that of parents and observers. Cantor Lohre's relationship with the youth of CNYFTY, and especially its officers, was outstanding. But people do not realize the contributions in time and strength and the dedication which an advisor like Cantor Lohre must exhibit to deserve such respect on the part of youth. Advisors must work with the parent body of the youth organization, and with their congregations to serve youth as they do. Cantor Lohre has donated so many weekends, so much of his own and his congregation's time to CNYFTY that you should all feel proud and thankful. Therefore, in the name of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Greater New York Council of Reform Congregations, I take pleasure in presenting to Cantor Lohre this scroll, attesting to his work as advisor to the Central New York Federation of Temple Youth for the years 1962-1965, and signed by the president of the council, Lazarus Bach, Fred Morgan, CNYFTY president 1964-1965, and myself."

A new society dedicated to the preservation of the memory and physical remains of the historic D and H Canal was organized at a recent meeting held at High Falls Firehouse and attended by more than 100 interested citizens.

The name of the group was officially designated as D and H Canal Historical Society and the charter of incorporation was read and presented at the session by Attorney John Wilke. John Novi of High Falls was elected president. Others named were Mrs. Kathleen Tettlow, vice president; Clarence Hanson, treasurer; Mrs. Trudy Pagliaroni, secretary. The board of governors includes Dr. Virgil DeWitt, Romeo Muller and Edward Grady. The gathering included residents of Ulster County and from other areas of the state and former canal communities in Pennsylvania.

President Novi outlined the formation of the society and told of its future plans. Others adding to the discussions were Dr. DeWitt of New Paltz; Herbert L. Shultz, president of Kingston Coal Co., and Walter Averill II, president of Nelson House, Poughkeepsie.

Following the unanimous election of officers, it was agreed that the board of governors would be expanded to include other notable citizens anxious to further the interests of the society.

Plans were approved to accept new members and enroll sponsors and life members who will be invited to contribute to the operational funds of the society. Those wishing to join or requiring further information may write to the society at High Falls.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, April 20 at High Falls Firehouse. Manville B. Wakefield, author of Coal Boats to Tidewater will present an informative lecture with slides on the canal.

SYNAGOGUE NEWS

Ahavath Israel

Late Friday evening services will be held at Ahavath Israel April 1, at 8 p. m. As this is the last Sabbath before the Passover Festival, the topic of the day will be the Passover Story and Ritual, and Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman will deliver his sermon on The Message of Passover. Cantor Larry Jacobs will chant the liturgy. The Sabbath before Passover is called Shabbos Hagadol, the Great Sabbath, and special services are held. At the Oneg Shabbat that will follow the services, a question and answer period on the observances and rituals of the Passover will be held, so Rabbi Schectman can answer any questions concerning the holiday. Everyone may attend this forum.

Saturday religious services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Rabbi Schectman will speak on the significance of Shabbos Hagadol, the Great Sabbath before Passover. Junior Congregation will meet for religious services for all boys and girls at 10:30 a. m. in the vestry hall chapel. Refreshments will be served after the services. The USY youth group of the congregation will meet Sunday 10 a. m. for services, breakfast and a study hour. A Passover discourse will be held with the group.

Special religious services for the Redemption of the First-Born, which is the pre-Passover ritual, will be held Monday in the synagogue at 7 a. m. All first born sons are to attend these services. Passover begins Monday evening April 4. Religious services will be held at 6:30 p. m. Monday and Tuesday, and at 9:30 a. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday. Tuesday and Wednesday morning special services will be held for the young men and women home for the holiday and for all boys and girls at 10 a. m. in the synagogue. The Hebrew classes at the Talmud Torah of Kingston will not be in session until after the entire Passover holiday. Classes will again resume Thursday, April 14.

Temple Emanuel

According to Cantor Julian Lohre, Temple youth group advisor, the CNYFTY regional convocation held in Kingston last weekend was a huge success. Approximately 200 Jewish teenagers attended. Adult members of the congregation assisted with arrangements. Cantor Lohre was awarded a statue of Moses by the ex-CNYFTY president in appreciation of Cantor Lohre's work as regional advisor from 1962 to 1965.

Friday regular sabbath services will be held at Temple Emanuel 7:45 p. m. Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn will preach on Why Remain Jews? Cantor Lohre and the temple choir will assist in the service. A special Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Dr. and Mrs. David Gerberg at the conclusion of the service in honor of their son, Bruce, who will be Bar Mitzvah Saturday morning.

During the memorial service the memories of Bertha Cohn, Chla Dvora Frohman and Alice Ruth Gray will be invoked. Saturday morning model seders will be conducted by each class in the religious school.

Monday a special Passover Service will be held at Temple Emanuel 6 p. m. There will be no adult study group sessions April 5 and 12 due to the Passover holiday.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Brownies Are Busy

Brownie Girl Scout Troops 19 and 33 have been combining for some interesting projects recently. The scouts made Easter baskets for the children at the Wassaic School for Children. They voted to use their dues money to fill the baskets with goodies. At another meeting 24 girls went on a tour of radio station WGHQ where they learned a great deal about today's communication methods. The scouts were accompanied on the tour by Mrs. Russell Kahrs and Mrs. Harold Bibbo, committee.

Brownie Troop 12 of Lake Katrine School entertained Brownie Troop 162 of Sawkill recently. St. Patrick's Day refreshments were served and the two troops joined together in preparing Easter favors as a service project for a local organization. The meeting included a lively songfest and closing ceremony. Troop 162 Scouts were accompanied by Mrs. William McGinnis and Mrs. Richard Alberstadt, leaders. Troop 12 leaders are Mrs. Frank Mongillo and Mrs. James Felton.

Fair Street Projects

Junior Girl Scout Troop 165, sponsored by Fair Street Reformed Church, had several interesting projects recently. The girls visited the Home for the Aged and sang a program of Girl Scout songs accompanied and directed by Mrs. William Rylance. Kathy Karaffa and Barbara Krom did a skit on Juliette Low and then the girls served refreshments.

The troop also held an Around the World supper at the Fair Street Church in conjunction with Girl Scout Thinking Day, which is a worldwide observance of scouting in memory of Juliette Low. The girls attending the supper received credit towards their hospitality badge. A total of 32 girls and leaders attended with Cadette Troop 32 from the St. James Methodist Church as guests. Foods from many countries were prepared and served by the Junior Scouts including Italy, Germany, Hungary, Mexico, Sweden, China, Orient, and Spain. The evening ended with a short skit by Barbara Jacobs, Beth Newman, Laurie Jayne Yaple and Suzanne Lowen.

The troop has also been involved in a service project this winter. They chose to visit area shut-ins as part of their Promise Project to the community. At Christmas time they made candles and home made cookies and cakes and delivered them to their shut-ins. They try to visit them regularly and to send cards on special occasions.

The above troops are all members of the Kingston Neighborhood of Girl Scouts Inc., a participating member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Public Records Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Government Operations subcommittee has approved a bill that would establish a federal public records law.

The so-called freedom of information measure, which now goes to the full committee, would grant any person the right of access to official records of the federal government. Information concerning national defense or foreign policy secrets, trade secrets and private business data would be exempted from the measure.

The bill also would set up standards to determine what could or could not be made available to the public and authorize court review for claims of unjustifiable withholding. The measure has been passed by the Senate.

'Play to Win' Knight Tells KHS Athletes

Army Basketball Coach Addresses Annual Banquet

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

"Winning isn't the most important thing. It's the only thing. You play to win and if you learn to be winners right now, you'll never regret it."

Those words of wisdom were delivered by Bob Knight, varsity basketball coach at West Point, to more than 225 varsity letter winners, cheerleaders and guests at last night's 7th annual Kingston High Awards Dinner in the KHS cafeteria.

The 25-year-old Knight told the athletes that athletics provides them with the greatest area of competition that can be found anywhere.

"Through your participation in athletics, you can gain a tremendous amount of success in life. You play like you practice so always make sure your practice sessions are very serious," he added.

Recalls Highlights

The coach told of the year's highlights of his Army team, which finished fourth in the National Invitational Basketball tournament.

"The injury to Mike Silliman, our All-America star, was the biggest highlight. We had defeated NYU, Cornell, Illinois and SMU with Silliman in the lineup. After his injury, our boys played inspired ball and finished at 6-2 to earn us an NIT berth," he stated.

The Cadets beat Manhattan and upset San Francisco in the tournament before losing a tough one to Brigham Young, which captured the title. They lost to Villanova in a battle for third place.

In evaluating Army's chances next year, Knight said the pieb team was 16-3 but that replacements must be found for not only Silliman but for Dick Murray, Bill Helkie and a couple of other stalwarts.

Tough Schedule Ahead

The schedule is a tough one as the Cadets will meet the likes of Syracuse, Purdue, Holy Cross, Princeton and Columbia early in the season.

He spiced his talk with some humorous incidents and stories and was a rousing hit.

Frank Koenig, alderman-at-large, gave the welcoming address. He replaced Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, who is out of town on business.

Other speakers included Dr. W. Wendell Hover, superintendent of schools; Arthur H. Wirt, president, Kingston Board of Education; Dan H. Allen, principal, Kingston High School; and Willard A. Burke, Kingston High athletic director.

Dick McCarthy, dinner chairman, was toastmaster. Committee members included Ronnie Scheffel, Ed Palladino, Frank (Bing) VanEtten, Andrew J. Murphy, III, James Kilpatrick and John W. Johnson.

Athletes and cheerleaders were given wallets as mementos of the event.

Cage Tourney Slated To Begin Tonight

Action will begin tonight in the 13th annual Kingston Basketball tournament with Ray's Tackle Shop playing Food Fair in the 7 p. m. opener and Schovel Tree opposing Donnie Van's at 8:15 p. m. Games will be played at the Municipal Auditorium.

The first round will be concluded on Sunday with Arlington Sports meeting Tonys Pizzeria at 7:45 and Spartan Pools going against Davies Cornhuskers at 8:45.

Semi-finals are slated Saturday, April 9 and the finals will take place Easter Sunday, April 10.

No Pre-Season Stocking

Trout Opener Looks Like Same Old Story

A departure from previous trout fishing seasons was noted today in that area streams would not be stocked for opening Friday of the 1966 trout season.

While officials of the New York State Soil Conservation service were not available for comment, it was reliably reported that stocking of the area's streams after opening of the season proved more beneficial for fishing conditions.

Meanwhile, area game protectors reported that the area streams were "in good shape, cold and high," which was normal for the season.

The Esopus, a favorite fishing spot for area nimrods, and the Sawkill were running high and swiftly but were reported not too roily.

Weather conditions promised to be the best in many years, with temperatures ranging between 45 and 55, with winds between 8 and 18 miles an hour.

Wehle Fishing Opens on Friday

ROCHESTER — The 21st annual Louis A. Wehle Fishing Contest will start April 1 and close October 31 according to information released by John L. Wehle, president of Genesee Brewing Co., Inc.

Wehle, former New York State conservation commissioner and offers $5,135 in cash prizes during the seven month fishing season for the largest fish in each of 12 classifications. The rules, regulations, past winners and other helpful angling information has been compiled in a 16-page Fishing Guide which is available.

The contest is open to all residents of New York State, without entry fee of any kind. College Student Leads All-Events With 1961 Series

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old University of Missouri student, who says he does not want to enter professional bowling, holds onto the lead today in the regular all-events division of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Bobby Menendez is the teenager who led Del Fair Lanes of Cincinnati, Ohio, to seventh place in the regular team division Tuesday, after posting 714 for three games.

He added 622 in the singles and 625 in the doubles Wednesday for his all events position score of 1961. Rich Martino of Batavia, N.Y., trails with 1938.

Despite his impressive performance, Menendez, of St. Louis, expressed no desire to become a professional. He is majoring in mathematics at the university.

It was his first appearance in an ABC tournament, and was the first year he competed as an adult in the tournament. He had bowled as a junior for the last seven years.

Menendez bowls with three other keggers from St. Louis who also are on the Del-Fair Lanes team. One of them is Jerome (Whitey) Harris, an old-time professional who organized the squad. Bill Kaiser of Rochester, N.Y., completes the Del-Fair's line-up.

Second in Classic

In the classic division, which so far has seen only three teams, Jerry Schleich of St. Louis took second in the all-events with 1899 for nine games. His 711 series in the doubles with Harris is the best individual effort thus far in professional play.

Sleich's other scores were 579 in team play and 609 in the classic singles.

In the regular division, Clyde McIntosh of Portland, Ore., took fifth in the singles with 692. Jesse Rollins of Houston, Tex., earned sixth in the regular all-events with 1884.

The ABC will induct its 30th member Thursday night into the organization's Hall of Fame. He is Buddy Bomar, a 49-year-old stockbroker from Chicago, who won bowling fame in the 1940s in Texas and later in Chicago. The Hall of Fame is considered bowling's highest honor.

The late Harold Allen of Detroit will enter the Hall of Fame in its meritorious service category. This award is given to men who serve bowling both on and off the lanes. Allen died in 1964.

Cornell Gets Grant, Upward Bound Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cornell University is the recipient of a $78,812 grant to aid 40 impoverished youths with a pre-college program.

The Office of Economic Opportunity announced the grant Wednesday as part of its $6 million Upward Bound plan. Other grants included $169,005 to aid 100 youths at Marist College, Poughkeepsie.

The pupils, mostly 10 and 11th graders, will begin with a summer residential, pre-college course and continue in the fall with special classes, tutoring help and cultural activities.

Celtics at Home For the Clincher

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Celtics "ain't dead yet," in the words of their coach, Red Auerbach.

Backed against the wall, the Celtics whipped the Cincinnati Royals 120-103 Wednesday night and kept alive their hopes for an eighth straight National Basketball Association championship. The victory tied the Eastern Division best-of-five semifinal playoff at 2-2 with the deciding game scheduled Friday night at Boston.

Meantime, the St. Louis Hawks completed a three-game sweep of their Western Division semifinals by defeating the Baltimore Bullets 121-112. The Hawks thus qualified to meet the Los Angeles Lakers in the first game of the best-of-seven Western Division finals at Los Angeles Friday night.

A crowd of 12,107 turned out at Cincinnati expecting the Royals to whip the Celtics and gain the division final against the Philadelphia 76ers. But the Celtics, led by Sam Jones and Tom Sanders, maintained the record of this series in which no home team has won.

Jones threw in 32 points, including six of eight field-goal attempts in a third-quarter Boston splurge that gave the Celtics a 15-point lead at 87-72. Sanders finished with 28 points, including 14 points in the first quarter when the Celts led 31-27.

Koufax, Drysdale Sign for Reported $225,000

$120,000 to Sandy, Jon Gets $105,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An

our after the long holdout siege ad ended, pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale had one more request of the general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Where can we find a catcher to practice with?" inquired Drysdale.

"One with a left-handed catcher's glove," added southpaw Sandy, joking.

The scene was the office of General Manager E.J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, and today the two hurlers were back in baseball, limbering up their famed arms for the approaching National League season.

Neither principal would even hint at the final terms except for Bavasi's disclosure that it was "more than $210,000" for one year.

This $210,000 was the sum revealed in the club's supposed final offer Tuesday — $110,500 to Sandy and $97,500 to Drysdale.

The speculation is that 26-game winner Koufax, the 1963 and 1965 Cy Young Award winner, got $120,000 and his right-handed teammate, who had 23 victories, $105,000, which maintains the $15,000 difference quoted all along by the Dodgers themselves.

Whatever the figure, it is certain the Dodgers have the first and only $100,000-a-year pitchers in the history of baseball.

Ends in All Smiles

The Dodger duo ended their 32-day holdout all smiles. Pressed for financial details, Sandy spoke for both when he said:

"Let's put it this way. Don and I are both happy."

The pair plan to join the Dodgers this weekend in Phoenix, and Drysdale, who has been working out the past week or more, said:

"I'd like to get in a couple of innings this weekend."

Koufax said he felt sure they could pitch during the first week of the season, which opens here April 12 against the Houston Astros.

Koufax said he weighs 197, seven or eight pounds under the playing weight; his legs feel good and his valuable arm "feels even better than it did this time a year ago."

That includes the left elbow, noted for a swelling eccentricity which threatened his career last spring.

The Dodgers are due in Phoenix tonight and have an off day Friday. They play the San Francisco Giants at Mesa and Phoenix Saturday and Sunday.

The windup of the holdout was dramatic but perhaps not as stunning as was the players' bombshell original request which they unloaded Feb. 22 — $1 million, or $500,000 apiece, on a three-year contract.

Wanted to Play

Bavasi revealed that Tuesday night, after the so-called final offer had been rejected, he talked by telephone with the players' attorney, J. William Hayes.

Hayes, Sandy's personal attorney in legal matters, advised Buzzie the two really wanted to play baseball.

So a conference was arranged between Bavasi and Drysdale, who in turn was to relay details of any new arrangement to Koufax.

Drysdale also conferred with old friend, television star Chud Connors, a former ballplayer who advised him to stay with the game a few more years.

Bavasi also obtained the ready release of Don and Sandy from a contract to appear in a movie at Paramount Studios, and after that things quickly fell into place.

"We're glad it's over," said Sandy. "It hasn't been fun for anybody."

"We're happy to be back in the fold, and happy that it worked out like it did," concluded Drysdale.

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

Mike Perry, the youthful and energetic cage coach at Ulster Community College, isn't content to rest on his first club's 13-8 record.

Along with Dan Cunha, his coach at Siena and now dean of students at LeMoyne University and Tom Niland, basketball coach at LeMoyne, Perry attended the National Assn. of Basketball Coaches convention a couple of weeks ago in Washington.

LIKE A WHO'S WHO

Instructors at the four-day session, held at the Hotel Shoreham, included such famous names as Dean Smith, North Carolina; Charles "Lefty" Driesell, Davidson; Arad Mutchman, Evansville; Howie Dallmar, Stanford; Bernie "Peck" Hickman, Louisville; Vic Bubas, Duke and Dr. Len Serfustini, Buffalo, and many others.

Like most coaches, Perry is always learning and he was impressed with the clinic on defense, given by Dr. Charles Ramsay of St. Joseph's College. He cited the 1-4 offense, as explained by Smith, one of the most interesting clinics on that phase of basketball.

Perry also attended clinics given by Fred Lewis, Syracuse; Ray Mears, Tennessee and Ray Myer, DePaul.

THE RULES COMMITTEE

Members of the rules committee will have a couple of proposed changes to ponder for next season. The first is to do away with a player holding up his hands while another is foul shooting.

The second concerns the offensive foul and the proposal is that the same penalty — the opposing team given the ball out of bounds — be enforced whether the player has ball control or not. A proposal that was defeated was the one recommended by Pres Maravich of North Carolina State. He wanted a 10 second clock installed so that officials wouldn't be put on the spot in calling that half-court violation.

"Maravich thought that with the press and other elements involved, the 10-second violation couldn't be called properly without the clock," Perry said.

TABLED DUE AS THE BEST

The trio (Perry, Cunha and Niland) attended the semi-finals and championship game of the NCAA tournament in College Park, Maryland.

Though Texas Western beat Kentucky in the finals, it was Perry's opinion that Duke, which lost to Kentucky, was the best team.

He was impressed with three of the teams and felt that Utah didn't belong in the same class as the other entries.

LOOKING AHEAD

The Ulster County coach is eagerly looking forward to the 1966-67 season. He has scheduled 28 games for the Senators. They include a Holiday tournament and a two-game trip to Maryland.

Perry isn't saying but he is hopeful of obtaining the services of some of the area's top cage stars. Another prospect is Erik Brown, a 6-3 ace at Power Memorial.

"We need some bench strength and a couple of replacements for George Drutman and Paul Buytkins. If we get some players of that caliber, we are hopeful of a successful season," Perry remarked.

He is also planning to floor a jayvee team, one that will give him a steady flow of talent to replace the graduates.

The local school is still without its own gym and practice hours aren't what Perry, a taskmaster, would like.

But, he has enthusiasm and also a knack of being in a particular place when there is a chance of obtaining a player.

We can't help but think this young man will coach an even better team next season. That's saying something with a 28-game schedule. This past year was considered something of a miracle. Can it be duplicated or bettered?

We'll leave that in Coach Perry's hands and we feel they're capable ones.

Osteen No Longer No. 1 Man

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Just when Claude Osteen was getting comfortable as the Los Angeles Dodgers' No. 1 pitcher, he lost the job.

Now you'd think a pitcher who had just hurled a two-hit shutout and lowered his spring earned run average to 2.17 wouldn't be in line for a demotion. But moments after Osteen had blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 Wednesday, he learned he was no longer No. 1.

There was this little matter of two guys named Koufax and Drysdale signing their contracts at just about the time that Osteen was retiring the last Red Wednesday.

Osteen, who has allowed just six earned runs in 27 2-3 spring training innings, did a Koufax-like job on Cincinnati. He retired the first 18 batters he faced before Tommy Harper beat out an infield hit leading off the seventh.

Osteen then allowed a ninth-inning single to Don Pavletich before finishing the Reds off. He walked only one and struck out eight.

Jim Lefebvre's two-run homer paced the Dodger attack.

Bunning Winner

Philadelphia's Jim Bunning also hurled a complete game Wednesday and two other pitchers, San Francisco's Gaylord Perry and Cleveland's Sam McDowell came close.

Bunning limited Kansas City to four hits including Larry Stahl's ninth-inning homer as the Phillies downed the Athletics 4-1. Bill White and Rich Allen homered for Philadelphia.

Perry worked eight innings and pounded one of three San Francisco homers as the Giants walloped California 15-5. Perry's stint was the longest by any Giant pitcher this spring. McCovey and Jim Ray Hart also homered and McCovey, Willie Mays and Tom Haller had three hits each.

McDowell was in a 5-5 tie against the Chicago Cubs and had two out in the ninth when pinch hitter Joey Amalfitano delivered a double that brought the lead run home. Lee Stange replaced McDowell and Ron Santo tagged him for a two-run homer that wrapped up the Cubs' 8-5 victory over the Indians.

Elsewhere Wednesday, the New York Mets downed Washington 5-2, Minnesota nipped Houston 3-2, Detroit rapped Atlanta 11-7, the Chicago White Sox dropped Baltimore 4-2 and St. Louis defeated Boston 5-3.

Canada Attaches Cassius' Purse; Routine Move

TORONTO (AP) — The Canadian government has attached Cassius Clay's earnings from the live gate and the Canadian closed-circuit television revenue in Tuesday night's heavyweight fight here against George Chuvalo.

Clay retained his share of the world title with an easy 15-round decision over the Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto.

Harold Ballard, executive vice president of Maple Leaf Gardens, which promoted the fight with Toronto's Frank Tunney, confirmed the move and said Wednesday night it was not out of the ordinary.

He said the Canadian government simply wants to hold Clay's purse until the income tax is deducted.

He was not sure how long this would take. He said it will depend on how soon officials can determine Clay's share of the TV revenue.

Ballard said the live gate amounted to about $150,000 after provincial amusement tax was deducted. Clay gets 50 per cent of the live gate, or about $75,000, and 50 per cent of the ancillary revenue.

Revenue from closed-circuit TV in 10 Canadian cities was estimated at $65,000 before expenses. Clay gets 50 per cent of the amount after Main Bout Inc., which controlled ancillary rights, deducts expenses.

Also included in the ancillary revenue is sale of radio broadcast rights to the CBC network, but this amount is not known.

Total revenue from all sources is estimated at about $350,000 with Clay's share amounting to $175,000.

Chuvalo collects 20 per cent of the live gate and 20 per cent of ancillary revenue, and his earnings are placed at $70,000. His share of the live gate is expected to be about $35,000.

There was no evidence that the government does not expect to get its money from Clay.

The money is to remain in trust until the matter is settled.

Clements Paces

Flying 'A' Victory

Wally Clementsen's 712 four-some led Dean's Flying "A" to a 5-0 victory over Greco Brothers Amusement in the Go-Go archery league. Jack Sleight anchored Greco's with 710. Each had high set of 186.

Knight Archery Lanes won over Leherb Rest, 4 to 1. Other high scorers were: John Rosa 612, Doug Snyder 602, Joe Smith 604.

Boxing Hearing Opens in Shadows

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating gangster influence in boxing was to begin its second day of taking testimony today after a confusing first-day session in which the hearing site was changed.

Seven witnesses went before the grand jury Wednesday in a session closed to the press.

Testifying were Julius Isaacson, former manager of Ernie Terrell; Harry Markson, director of boxing at New York's Madison Square Garden; John Novick, pretzel machine manufacturer and reputed New York gambler; Joe Glaser, New York theatrical agent and former manager of Sugar Ray Robinson; Teddy Brenner, New York fight promoter; Gus Alex, reputed Chicago gambling overlord, and Gus Zapas, an ex-convict and aide to James Hoffa, Teamsters Union president.

A federal spokesman told The Associated Press late Wednesday night he could not reveal whether Bernard Glickman, 51, former Chicago fight manager would testify at today's session.

Nothing was learned about the testimony in Wednesday's five-hour session as federal officials and witnesses refused to comment on the proceedings.

The session got off to a confusing start as the hearing was shifted from the U.S. Courthouse, usual hearing site, to the U.S. Customs Building.

Federal officials were quoted as saying the proceedings were moved to avoid newsmen and television reporters. A court order authorizing the shift disclosed that a U.S. attorney acted to shield the jurors and subpoenaed witnesses from "any disruptive influence."

Palmer Fires 63 In Tourney Prep

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Doug Sanders was plagued with a cold, Sam Snead was dissatisfied with his game, but Arnold Palmer had no complaints as the $100,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament started today.

Palmer, cheered by his army of followers, shot an eight-under-par 63 Wednesday to win top money of $500 in the $7,500 pro-am warm-up.

Sanders, fresh from his Jacksonville Open victory last weekend, was runner-up with a 66. But Sanders complained of a cold that has bothered him for several weeks.

Snead, eight-time winner of the GGO and the defending champion, said, "I'm not playing very well." But handsome Al Besselink disagreed with Snead, saying he is picking the popular Old Slammer to win.

"Snead is the greatest," said Besselink.

A field of 144 has entered the four-day tournament, which carries a first prize of $20,000.

The Greensboro Open is the last stop before the Masters at Augusta Ga., next week.

Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player passed up the GGO to practice for the Masters.

Operate on Kidd For Ankle Injury

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — U.S. ski ace Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., was scheduled to undergo surgery today for removal of a bone chip from his left ankle.

Kidd was told there is a strong possibility he will be ready to ski in the World Ski Championships at Portillo, Chile, Aug. 4-14.

Kidd entered St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday. Previously, X rays had shown a chip from the ankle bone may have caused the troubles that have plagued him since he first injured the ankle in 1963.

Kidd tried to ski in the U.S. National Alpine Championships at Stowe two weeks ago but had to drop out of the first event because of the ankle.

Army Slates Baseball Opener With LIU Tossers Saturday

WEST POINT — It's opening day for the Army baseball team Saturday as the Cadets launch a 23-game schedule against Nemesis Long Island University. Army has opened with the Blackbirds the past two seasons, and on both occasions has been defeated.

Coach Eric Tipton has several reasons to be optimistic about the 1966 season. For one, he has ten lettermen returning from the team which brought Army the Eastern League championship last year. Secondly, he has a starter back at every position but third base and depth to spare in several spots. He also has a pitching staff which has to rate with the best in the East.

Clicked in Florida

One more reason for optimism lies with the result of Army's recent exhibition swing in Florida. While there the Cadets split four games with Miami, Ohio State and Michigan State, marking the first time ever that Army has won a game on its southern trip.

Either Barry DeBolt or Mac Hayes figures to get the starting nod for Saturday's 2:15 p. m. clash with the Blackbirds at Doubleday Field. DeBolt was named to the all-League team for the second straight year last spring, finishing with a 7-2 record and a remarkable 1.50 ERA for 78 innings of work. Hayes, a senior righthander like DeBolt, has a combined 7-0 record spanning two seasons.

Verwoerd Piles Up 2-1 Lead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Premier Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist party held a lead of more than 2 to 1 today in returns from South Africa's general election. It promised another overwhelming endorsement by the country's white voters for the party's apartheid policy of rigid racial segregation.

Returns for 121 of the 166 seats to be filled in the House of Assembly gave 84 seats to the Nationalists, 36 to the United party and one to the Progressive party.

Helen Suzman, an outspoken critic of apartheid, was the successful Progressive. She won re-election by a majority of 711 votes over her United party opponent in a Johannesburg district. Her majority in 1961 was 564.

The only member of her party in the previous Parliament, Mrs. Suzman, 49, made more than 100 major speeches charging that Verwoerd's policy of separate development for the black majority will lead to disaster for South Africa.

Report Woman Held On Bigamy Charge

A local woman was arrested today on a bigamy charge after reported trace of information from her first husband.

Arrested late this morning was Gertrude Elizabeth Boudreau, 27, of 11 Mill Street, by County Investigator Thomas Mayone, Identification Officer Robert Doran and city detectives Charles McCullough and Albert Hutton.

She was due to be arraigned this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie, Town of Esopus, where, it is alleged she had married a second husband. Authorities said the first husband, Kenneth Boudreau, of Kingston, had served six months in jail on a charge dealing with non-support, and while there had learned that his wife had remarried.

Investigator Mayone said Boudreau and his wife had been separated seven or eight years and there were five children from that marriage.

It is now alleged that she had married Gilbert Henderson, of 11 Mill Street on March 13 in the Town of Esopus without having been divorced from Boudreau.

The arrest today was on a county court warrant.

Donald Loring, personnel manager of the Fairchild Semiconductor Corp., told a state manpower conference Wednesday that the pool of people whom it can train for production work is shrinking.

Safety Check ...

Authority said Wednesday that several cars had been prohibited from entering the Thruway since the procedure began this week.

He added that most drivers, while not happy at being stopped for the inspection, appeared to appreciate the safety warning.

The authority plans to put five permanent inspection teams to work on the 559-mile-long highway. The teams are to be increased during the summer to handle the increased traffic volume.

R. Burdell Bixby, authority chairman, said the plan was aimed at improving the highway's safety record.

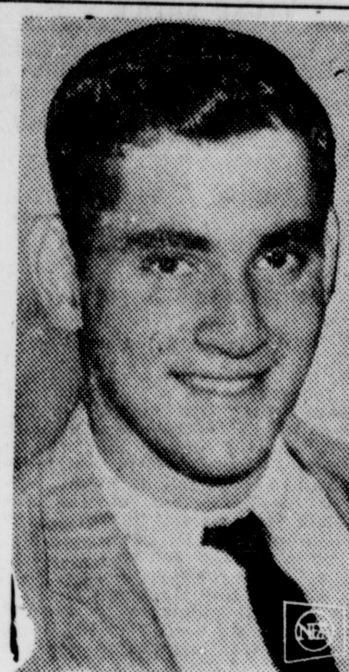

Dog to Get Medal

LONDON (AP)—Pickles, the dog who sniffed out the missing World Soccer Cup, is to be presented with a silver medal from the Canine Defense League and a check for $148 Friday night.

The money has been collected by staff of the Royal Garden Hotel, where the cup was kept in safe custody before it was put on show at an outside exhibition from which it was stolen. Pickles is to appear in a film, "The Spy with a Cold Nose," much of which is to be shot in the hotel.

Whether Pickles' master, David Corbett, gets the larger awards running into thousands of dollars was up in the air due to claims being made by others including the Football Association.

"We have $25,000 in bills waiting to be delivered to you. You may use any intermediary to establish contact that you want. Just get the word to us and we will do anything you or your representative wants."

Taurig said the Goldmans also asked news media to reduce coverage of developments in the case and to withdraw reporters from in front of their home.

"We fear that following the intimate movements of everyone so closely has made those holding the boy captive afraid to make contact," Taurig said.

Apparently all news media agreed.

Friends of the wavy-haired high school senior gathered in an ornate Jewish temple built by Daniel's father, a wealthy contractor, to pray for his safety.

Young Lt. Leads Besieged Troops Until Aid Comes

CHU PHONG, South Vietnam (AP) — He is a slim, soft-spoken New Englander who wears glasses. Next year he wants to study at Harvard Business School. Wednesday night he took command of a battered company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division and led them in a stand against a thousand North Vietnamese troops. 2nd Lt. Daniel Kapica, 22, of New Britain, Conn., took over on the battlefield after his company commander had been wounded and the executive officer killed.

Others Defer

Though they outranked him, several first lieutenants in the company deferred to Kapica because he had been through three 1st Cavalry actions in Vietnam.

The company from the 1st Battalion, 12th Cavalry, had set out late in the afternoon to locate the crews of two helicopters shot down during heavy fighting between a platoon of cavalrymen and the enemy. The action took place just south of the Chu Phong Mountains about a mile from the Cambodian border in the central highlands.

The company reached the first chopper about 5 p.m. and rescued the crew. Then it began moving to the second helicopter about 300 yards to the north. Two platoons reached the downed aircraft. But as the men fanned out past it toward a tree-line, "all hell broke loose," Kapica said.

Small-arms and automatic-weapon fire flashed from spider holes and trees.

"We were taking casualties but we continued the assault," Kapica said. "Then the company commander got hit and the fire became so heavy that we pulled back."

Worked As Team

"But we moved up soon afterwards and then the executive officer got killed. I took over the company then, but I worked closely with the other lieutenants. We worked as a team, we put our heads together."

The company started pulling back to await air support, leaving an element behind to bring in the wounded. By nightfall, Kapica had his men in a 50-yard-wide perimeter. A North Vietnamese prisoner they had taken told them they were surrounded by a thousand troops.

The enemy kept probing the beleaguered Americans throughout the night, exhausting the ammunition supply of the little group. At 1 a.m. a U.S. Army C-130 transport plane came in over the treetops to drop ammunition and C-rations.

Find Enemy Leaflets

As darkness still lay over the hills, helicopters brought in two more companies from the battalion, and this may have broken the will of the enemy. Kapica's company began moving out at dawn. It came across some dead North Vietnamese troops and picked up enemy weapons.

On one body, Kapica's men found a batch of English-language leaflets. They showed a sketch of a coffin draped with the Stars and Stripes on one side and these words on the other: "Escalation up or down?"

Johnson's escalation can only take you down, way down into a coffin of rough pine if they can find your remains."

The leaflets apparently were for distribution in U.S. troop areas.

At noon, Kapica's company was still in the field moving through the slight rolling hills and tall trees.

Kapica's superior officers praised him for a superb job as acting commander.
